PETROGRAD, June 12.—Russian troops yesterday approached the outskirts of Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, the War Office announced today.

Since the present offensive against the Austrians in Volhynia and Galicia started a week ago yesterday the Russians have taken about 108,000 prisoners. They took prisoners 400 officers and 35,000 men Saturday, says the official statement issued here yesterday. The Russians also captured 30 guns and an enormous quantity of booty. The army of Gen. Tschitsky alone, operating in the direction of Czernowitz, Bukovina, the statement adds, overwhelmed the Austro-Hungarians and took 15,000 prisoners.

The official statement says:
"Our offensive in Volhynia, Galicia and Bukovina obtained fresh successes yesterday."

"In a single sector we captured 21 machine guns, 23 field kitchens, 47 trains of machine guns, 12,000 pounds of barbed wire (a pound is equivalent to 36 pounds), 200 concrete planks, 7,000 cubes of concrete, 10,000 pounds of steel, enormous depots of ammunition and quantities of arms and other material."

Heavy Booty Captured.
"In another sector we captured 30,000 rifle cartridges, 300 boxes of machine-gun cartridges, 100 boxes of hand grenades, 100 rifles, four machine guns, two range finders and a Norton portable pump for the extraction of drinking water."

"During yesterday's fighting we took as prisoners 400 officers and 35,000 soldiers. We also captured 40 guns, 13 machine guns and five range finders. (This makes the total trophies in recent operations one General, 1549 officers and more than 100,000 soldiers and 124 guns, 180 machine guns and 58 bomb throwers.)"

"Among the various episodes may be noted the bloody struggle of our young formation near Rottche, on the Elbe near Lutzke. Here the Germans attempted to render assistance to the Austrians, but by our infantry attack, delivered under cover of heavy artillery, they were dislodged from the town, losing more than 200 prisoners,
two guns and some machine guns."

"Our forces operating in the region of Dubno (one of the fortresses comprising the Volhynian triangle) captured the town and are on the enemy's heels. Some Russian detachments, crossing the Ikwaw River, have developed their offensive."

"A part of the Russians occupied the region of the village of Damiwka, on the Mylnoff-Bereszchno road, forcing the enemy at his Mylnoff point of support to surrender. Besides dislodging the enemy from his principal position north of Bouchatche, we took many prisoners there, including the staff of an Austrian battalion, and also captured a great quantity of arms."

Victory on the Strips.
"We overtook the enemy on the Strips, near Ossowitza, north of Bouchatche. One of our regiments captured a complete battery of four 10-centimeter (four-inch) mortars."

"Despite the enemy's desperate resistance, his violent flank and curtain fire, together with the explosion of mines,
Gen. Tschitsky's troops captured an enemy position south of Dobronowitza, 30 versts northeast of Czernowitz (Bukowina). In this region alone we took as prisoners one General, 347 officers and 18,000 men and captured 10 guns, and at the time this report is dispatched prisoners are still coming in."

"Southeast of Zala Sconyky, by an energetic coup, we overthrew the enemy, who retreated. The enemy blew up the Yekurkous railway station."

Turkoman cavalry charged the retreating enemy and turned his retreat into a disorderly rout.

"We attempted to save the situation the enemy at many places made furious counter attacks. Among others, at dawn Saturday in the region of Semki, east of Kolki, numerically superior enemy forces attacked our advanced elements, and under cover of a concentration of their fire forced them back toward the Strips. But the same day we arrested all ulterior developments of this offensive."

Heavy Fighting on Strips.
"The enemy is resisting with especial desperation in the region of Torgovitsky, on the Strips south of Lutzke, where he is fighting with extraordinary fury."

"The total results of the violent attacks of our troops, carried out from the fourth to the tenth without giving

Bainbridge Colby Praises President and Criticises T. R.

IN response to a request from the Post-Dispatch and New York World for a statement on the situation precipitated by the virtual refusal of Col. Roosevelt to run as the Progressive candidate for President, Bainbridge Colby, former St. Louisian, widely known New York lawyer, prominent in Roosevelt's campaign for the Republican nomination in 1912 and since prominent in Progressive party councils, who placed Roosevelt in nomination at Chicago Saturday, sent the following telegram:

"The Progressives have sustained a head-on collision with their leader.
The fact is manifest. He is to look the situation over and decide what to do, but we, too, will look the field over and determine what we will do."

For many weeks it has been evident that the vehement attacks of Col. Roosevelt upon the President were precluding that freedom of decision on the part of the Colonel necessary for the high leadership of an independent party with principles of its own and a sense of its mission.

"His denunciation of Wilson left the Colonel at the mercy of the Republican party. If Wilson is unbelievably bad—and so the Colonel in the intensity of his opposition apparently thinks, he cannot hesitate to support the party which is oppo-sitioning him, which is the only way numerically the best promise of the President's overthrow."

Condemns Attacks on President.
"It is this outstanding fact and controlling logic which gave such a sickly hue to the futile strategy of the 'Progressive' negotiators," and made the wire to Oyster Bay, and the messages it carried, irrelevant and immaterial to a situation largely of the Colonel's making, and which he tardily recognized.

"It is easier to get excited about a subject than to think about it, and the Progressives propose to do a little thinking and leave the tantrums to others."

"Among other things they desire to do justice to a President who has been called upon to grapple with problems almost beyond human faculty, and who has endured with unflinching steadiness, a volume of criticism which has no parallel in our history since Lincoln's time."

Recalls Reply of Lincoln.
"We recall the answer of Lincoln to the cry in 1864 that his administration was merely 'stumbling along.'"
"It may be true," said Lincoln,
"but, please God, I think we are stumbling, along in the right direction."

"If the President has stumbled, has it been in the right direction?"
"This is worthy of a little reflection," and the Progressives are thinking."

CHICAGO, June 12.—George von
L. Meyer, former Cabinet member and supporter of Col. Roosevelt for the Republican presidential nomination, today approved statements made by Charles E. Hughes in his letter of acceptance.

"I believe that with concerted action by all opposed to the present administration we can elect Mr.
Hughes as our next President," he said.

Meyer departed for Boston today.
He came to Chicago in the interest of Roosevelt's nomination by the Republicans.

VON L. MEYER AND HENRY ALLEN WILL SUPPORT HUGHES

tice's Statements.

HENRY J. ALLEN THINKS T. R. WILL SUPPORT HUGHES

Kansas Regards Justice's Statements After Nomination as Meeting Requirement of Colonel.

Henry J. Allen, Kansas Progressive leader, here as a newspaper correspondent reporting the Democratic convention, who has announced his support of Mr. Hughes, today expressed the belief that Col. Roosevelt also would take an active part in the Hughes campaign.

He said that former Representative Victor Murdock, chairman of the Progressive National Committee, was most prominent among those suggesting the splendid statement of Mr. Hughes as meeting the conditions which he laid down to the Progressive convention, a majority of the Progressives in the central and Northern states will support
Mr. Hughes.

"As far as I am personally concerned, if Col. Roosevelt declines the Progressive nomination I will support Mr.
Hughes rather than vote for some lesser leader of the Progressive party. Not that I have lost in any way my enthusiasm for the principles which we have sought to introduce, but because I think the fight is going to be cleanly between Wilson and Hughes, and in that case I prefer Hughes."

Although declining to predict positively that Col. Roosevelt would support Justice Hughes, Allen said:

"As I read the Hughes statement it seems to me to meet the conditions laid down by Col. Roosevelt and I believe Col. Roosevelt will maintain rather an important relationship to the Hughes propaganda."

Allen said Gov. Johnson of California was going to Oyster Bay to urge Col.
Roosevelt's acceptance of the Progressive nomination and that the Progressive leaders were considering the selection of Justice Hughes to fill the Roosevelt vacancy as the Progressive presidential nominee, with Col. John M. Parker of Louisiana as the vice presidential candidate, in order to maintain the party's existence and its right to a place on state ballots, especially in the South.

MAJOR NAMES JAMES HAGERMAN CIRCUIT CLERK

He Will Succeed Charles R.
Graves, Who Died Last Night.

APPOINTEE A DEMOCRAT

He Was Formerly City Collector —Court Business Is Tied Up.

Gov. Major told a Post-Dispatch reporter at noon today that he would appoint James Hagerman Jr. of 4401 Mc-Pherson avenue as Clerk of the St. Louis
Circuit Court to succeed Charles R.
Graves, who died at St. Luke's Hospital from peritonitis resulting from an operation for appendicitis performed last Tuesday.

Hagerman, a Democrat, was City Collector. He is a partner in the company operating the Park and Shenandoah Theaters, in which Arthur Fitzsimmons, former chairman of the Democratic City Committee, also is interested.

Hagerman will hold office as Circuit
Clerk until the next general election, which will be in November. His salary will be $6000 a year.

Graves' death caused a suspension of business at the courthouse until his successor could be appointed and qualify. No writs could be issued, no suits could be filed and the courts could not transact any business because there was no Circuit Clerk to sign orders, as required by law. All deputy clerks were stripped of authority by death, Adolph Troll, chief clerk of the transcript department, said.

Situation Was Critical.
Presiding Judge Taylor informed Major last night of the situation and received the Governor's promise that appointment of Graves' successor would be made without delay.

It is not believed likely that Hagerman, if he desired, could cause wholesale removals among the 40 Republican appointees in Graves' office, because most of his appointments must be confirmed by the Circuit Judges, a majority of whom are Republicans.

Graves, who was 61 years old, and who lived at 137 Union boulevard, was the second Republican serving as Circuit Clerk in this office. In 1901 Capt.
Henry Troll, who was elected Circuit
Clerk as a Republican the year before, died, and Gov. Dockery, a Democrat, appointed Ralph Orthwein to fill the unexpired term.

Graves was taken ill in Chicago, where he had gone as a contesting delegate to the Republican convention. He returned to St. Louis June 3, after he had been unseated by the Credentials Committee.

He had resided here since 1893. Before entering politics he was a carriage builder. He was a Mason and his funeral from the family residence will be conducted under the auspices of the Masonic order.

Graves had for years been active in Republican politics of the city. He was

HUGHES ARRIVES IN NEW YORK TO CONSULT LEADERS

First Caller Is Robert Fuller, Who Was His Secretary When He Was Governor.

TIME OF STAY INDEFINITE

Wickersham Talks With Candidate 35 Minutes; Says He Is Not to See Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Charles E.
Hughes came here today for his first campaign conference. He arrived from Washington at 7:05 a. m. and went to the hotel, where he will spend the day.
He promised to see newspaper men later in the day.

Although the Police Department had been notified of the Republican candidate's coming and had sent detectives to meet the train, his arrival at such an early hour was generally unexpected.
He was met by T. H. Whitney, Public Service Commissioner, and William R.
Wickersham, New York attorney and former member of the Public Service Commission.

Many of the leaders who are expected to talk with Hughes during his stay in New York had not returned from Chicago this morning. Hughes did not say how long he intended to stay here.

His first caller was Robert Fuller, who was his secretary when he was Governor of New York.

"I have nothing to say on politics at this time," said Mr. Hughes, greeting newspaper men. This was in response to a question as to whether he would see Col. Roosevelt during his stay here.

"I have come here primarily to make my plans for the summer," continued the presidential candidate. "New York, by the way, is where I belong and I am glad to get back here."

Mr. Hughes admitted there were certain "important matters to discuss," but efforts by the newspaper men to learn at this time what his specific plans were proved futile.

His presence on the train that brought him from Washington was unknown to all but a few of his fellow passengers.
When he left the train he attracted no attention, but showed the ferry was regularly by commuters coming to the city from their Jersey homes. They made no demonstration.

Mr. Hughes' secretary said that it was as yet undecided whether Mr. Hughes would receive the shinning fashions of the convention committee which is to formally notify him of his nomination.

Hughes Alliance Revived.
The first organized political move in the furtherance of the campaign for the election of Mr. Hughes was announced today. It was the revival of the Hughes Alliance, an organization of Republicans, Democrats and independent voters which came into existence during the second campaign of Mr. Hughes for Governor of New York in 1907. The organization was made up of Travis H. Whitney.

Whitney accompanied the presidential candidate to the Hotel Astor, where Mr.
Hughes had established his headquarters.
He said that the same men who were identified with the Hughes Alliance had decided to get together to work in New York State for the election of a candidate, probably under the name of the Hughes Nonpartisan League. The organization, he said, would co-operate with the regular Republican organization.

Mr. Hughes before noon declined to discuss his plans. He was asked how it felt "to be drafted for the biggest job in the world."

Duty Was Supreme.
"I can only say," he replied, "there are certain circumstances under which a matter of duty is supremely clear and which leaves no ground for hesitancy in this case. There was no question in this situation as to what I should do.
I did it and in my announcement to the people I endeavored to make my attitude clear."

"I came here to hold consultations in regard to arrangements for the future.
I can say nothing in respect to the details at this time."

Mr. Hughes then posed for moving picture and camera men.

Many local Republicans called on Mr.
Hughes before noon, among them being George W. Wickersham. Wickersham denied that he had been in consultation recently with Col. Roosevelt, but declined to discuss rumors that he was acting as mediator between the Progressives and Republicans.

"MAJOR? MAJOR WHO?" ASKS LEADER OF ALABAMA DELEGATES

The Alabama delegation of 24, with an equal number of alternates, arrived at 7:45 a. m. Edward Smith of Birmingham is the chairman. Thomas E. Orr of Albertville, one of the delegates, was asked "an Alabama's choice for a vice presidential candidate."

"We're for Marshall, I guess," replied Orr.

"How about Major?" asked the reporter.

"Major? Major? Major who?"
"Why, he's the Governor of Missouri."
Orr turned to several other delegates.
"Did you ever hear of Major?" he said.
They all shook their heads.

"Well," said Orr, "a lot of us that wanted to be Y. e letters to me, but I was one of them."

MAJOR DOFFS HIS SILK TILE, WEARS
'STATESMAN'S' HAT

But Sartorial Change Makes Little Impression on Arriving Delegates.

Gov. Major's silk tile, which was expected to be on the shining fashions of the Democratic national convention disappeared from his wonted place on the Governor's brow this morning. In its place Major wore a soft, broad-brimmed black hat of the style affected by Champ Clark, William J. Bryan and other astute vote-getters.

"This sudden shifting of scenery will make it necessary for St. Louisans to apologize to a number of newspaper correspondents and other convention visitors, who have been told that the Major silk tile would be on exhibition, in the Hotel Jefferson lobby every day this week. This announcement was made in good faith, but through Major's incosistent action the promised sight cannot be shown, and it will have to be made up to guests in some other way."

The Governor walked through the Jefferson lobby shortly after a o'clock while Charles F. Murphy and other New York delegates were eating breakfast, and while a number of other influential personages were still in bed. His promenade was a sort of try-out of the new hat.

"With the new hat, Gov. Major wore a long black Prince Albert coat and black trousers and shoes. Even without the silk tile, he would have shone sartorial-ly among the delegates, whose clothes still showed their sleeping car creases but for one thing."

This was the entry of Col. Bill Sapp, national committeeman from Kansas, wearing a silk hat. The Colonel, who is from Galena, in the Joplin mining district, wears a silk hat as a matter of habit, and more or less as a matter of principle. He is said to be the only member of the committee who does wear one habitually.

While the Governor saw Col. Bill, and noted the amount of attention which the Colonel's hat was attracting, he gave up the unequal contest and retreated to an elevator.

Gov. Major will have a room at the Jefferson this week, and will be among the Jefferson lobby, and in other places where delegates are encountered. But it

Secretary of Navy Daniels Sketched at the Jefferson

JOSEPHUS DANIELS.

Holders and Major appointees in charge. Judge Waller W. Graves of the Missouri Supreme Court, is in supreme charge of the headquarters. Assisting him are Walter Chorn, State Superintendent of Insurance; Frederic A. Mayhall, Deputy Superintendent of Insurance; Jewell Mayes, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, and Horace Rumsey, Executive Commissioner.

McClung Keeps Busy.
Mayes denied that he was a part of the Major office force, but was one of those engaged in answering telephone calls. Warden McClung was busy about headquarters, but was considered more a field man of the organization than an assistant in headquarters.

Unofficial statements at the Major headquarters were that Major expected about 200 votes on the first ballot. The selection of Patrons for the Vice President by the Republican convention in Chicago last week was a hard blow to Major's supporters. Delegates who arrived this morning generally said that there was no occasion to refuse to give the nomination to Vice President Marshall, and that good politics, if nothing else, required that it go to him, an Indiana man, when the Republicans had selected an Indiana man.

New England Delegates on Way Here on Special Train.

BOSTON, June 12.—New England delegations to the Democratic national convention started for St. Louis on a special train today. The party from this State and Maine was joined by the New Hampshire and Vermont delegations and some of the delegates from Connecticut.

QUINTET FROM ALLENTOWN, PA., COME TO ST. LOUIS IN AUTO

With local pennants from a score of communities strung around their touring car, and a huge sign across the back, "We are for Wilson," a quintet from Allentown, Pa., home of the Schwab steel works, arrived in St. Louis this morning.

The quintet comprised J. B. Waldich, candidate for Congressman-at-large in Pennsylvania; his son-in-law, Samuel Handwerker; C. F. Ritter, Thomas W. Handwerker and Henry F. Kravitz. The last named was formerly County Treasurer of Lehigh County.

The "We are for Wilson" sign was all but visible.

HUGHES' SILENCE ASSET TO G. O. P., DANIELS DECLARES

Nomination Was Made Because He Had Not Weakened Self as Others, Secretary Says.

HERE FOR CONVENTION

Declares Present Congress Has Outdone Others in Providing for Enlarged Navy.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, who is here to attend Democratic national convention, said today in an interview with a Post-Dispatch reporter, that he thought the nomination of Justice Hughes at Chicago was a result of declining confidence of the Republicans in their ability to defeat President Wilson. He told also of his plans for a larger navy and answered the critics who have asserted the inefficiency of the navy under his administration.

"Five or six months ago," Secretary Daniels said, "the Republicans were confident they could elect their man. They felt so sure of this that candidates in abundance offered themselves, and the party leaders felt that whoever was nominated would be successful. Then their confidence began to go down. This meant the elimination of all the candidates who had records in national politics."

"Justice Hughes was the one man left who was not weakened by past activity in national affairs. He had not expressed his views on the sharp issues raised by the war and the Republicans turned to him as the man they thought would best be able to satisfy all the Republicans and bring back the Progressives."

Secretary Daniels said he did not care to comment upon the probability that Roosevelt will not be a third party candidate. He merely intimated that the former President's final decision might be influenced by some millions of voters. He felt certain, however, that as the situation now stands President Wilson's re-election is assured.

The navy bill now before Congress carries $100,000,000 more for additional ships than any previous naval bill. Secretary Daniels pointed out. He expressed the belief that the bill would be enlarged still more by the Senate. "The present administration," he said, "has added 22,000 men and officers to the personnel of the navy, whereas the Taft administration added only 3100. The year before I became Secretary of the Navy Congress provided for one dreadnought. This year it provided for three. The first program that I put through called for five dreadnoughts and I was criticized because it was not 10. My critics did not seem to realize how hard it was to get those five when both Democrats and Republicans were fighting for only one."

"That same Congress also provided for our first battle cruisers. As for the efficiency of the navy, Admiral Fletcher states that it has made records in the last few years exceeding any ever before made. I am willing to let the records speak for themselves and I know that much of the criticism has been distinctly partisan."

Secretary Daniels is accompanied by Mrs. Daniels. They are stopping at the Hotel Jefferson.

Circuit Court Is Tied Up by Death of Charles Graves

Identified with the Kiel-Schmoll faction in all the campaigns of recent years. He was serving his second full term as Circuit Clerk, and the term would not have expired until two years from next January. He first became Circuit Clerk by appointment of Gov. Hadley to fill out the unexpired term of Frederick H. Kreismann when Kreismann was elected Mayor.

At the following election he was a successful candidate and in 1914 he was re-elected. He had the appointment of about 40 subordinates. Among them were 20 deputy clerks at salaries ranging from $60 a month to $300 a year. His chief clerk, Nat Goldstein, receives $3000. He also appointed nine courtroom clerks at $175 a month and several other employees at $150 a month.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Charles W. and Joseph W. Graves. The former is a courtroom clerk.

Graves' Will Is Filed; Leaves Estate to Widow.
Graves' will was filed for probate today by his son, Charles W. Graves. He left everything to his wife, Sarah W. Graves. The will was drawn Nov. 14, 1905. The witnesses were George H. Williams and O. D. Noble. Nat Goldstein, chief deputy in Graves' office, certified to Graves' signature on the will.

MEXICAN PLANK IN PLATFORM WORRIES ADMINISTRATION

Uncertainty of Situation Causes Anxiety to President and His Advisers.

NO FEAR OVER BRYAN

Executive at Present Is Not Planning to Make Any Campaign Trips.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—President Wilson yesterday put his final approval on plans for the Democratic National Convention at St. Louis. After attending church with Mrs. Wilson in the morning, he spent the afternoon and evening conferring with Democratic leaders.

Secretary Baker, who will be a delegate to the convention, saw the President twice, and Dudley Field Malone, Collector of Customs at New York, also conferred with him. Secretary Baker will depart for St. Louis tonight and will be one of the President's personal representatives at the convention.

The Mexican plank in the Democratic platform is giving administration officials some concern because of the continued uncertainty of the situation. It was understood that the plank will emphasize the President's policy of interfering as little as possible in the internal affairs of Mexico.

Will Select Chairman.
Although the President plans to select a chairman of the Democratic National Committee before the convention, he had not announced his selection. Homer Cummings, National Committee member from Connecticut, and vice chairman of the committee, appeared to be the most likely choice.

Administration officials expressed confidence that William Jennings Bryan would do nothing at the convention calculated to interfere with party harmony. Every effort will be made to satisfy all elements of the party at St. Louis in order to present a united front. The present intention of the President is not to make any campaign trips, although he undoubtedly will make a number of speeches during the summer and autumn.

In addition to the addresses he will deliver Tuesday at West Point and here Wednesday, he has accepted invitations to speak at New York June 20 and here July 4 at the dedication of the new headquarters of the American Federation of Labor. He probably will also go to Detroit early in July and to Philadelphia June 25, for greetings of advertising men.

His Official Notification.
President Wilson probably will receive official notification of his renomination at Shadow Lawn, the estate he has taken for the summer in New Jersey. Although he plans to remain in Washington until Congress adjourns, he probably will make a brief visit to Shadow Lawn for the occasion.

The President will depart for West Point this afternoon. He will go as far as Jersey City by train and then board the naval yacht Mayflower, which will take him up the Hudson. He will speak at West Point Tuesday morning and then return directly to Washington. Wednesday morning he will march with a preparedness parade here, and later review it and deliver an address.

$430,000 IN TATTERED BILLS DESTROYED IN ST. LOUIS

Money Punched Full of Holes, Cut in Half and Then Sent to Washington.

Currents amounting to $430,000 was destroyed at the United States Subtreasury today by inspectors under the direction of John Moon, Chief Inspector of the Treasury Department at Washington, because the bills were tattered and torn.

The bills destroyed were greater in number than have ever been destroyed at one time at the St. Louis office. They ranged from $1 to $10. They were bound in packages of 100 and put through a machine which first punched them full of holes and then halved them lengthwise. The halves were then placed in separate bags and sent by express to separate trains to the Treasury at Washington.

Inspectors under the direction of Moon have just finished counting $48,322,183.56 at the St. Louis Subtreasury. Of this, $40,115,143.44 is gold and $8,207,040.12 is in bills. Treasurer Vandiver's accounts were found correct.

SUFFRAGE SPEECHES FROM AUTO

Two Members of Woman's Party Make Addresses in Front of Hotel.
Miss Mabel Vernon of Nevada, secretary of the Woman's party, and Mrs. Rheta Child Dorr of New York, made suffrage speeches from an automobile in front of the Hotel Jefferson this afternoon.

They attracted the attention of many Democratic delegates and were listened to with close attention. Both urged the platform adoption of a national suffrage plank.

T. N. PAGE SEES PRESIDENT

Ambassador Says U. S. Foreign Policy Has Commanded Respect.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Thomas Nelson Page, American Ambassador to Italy, who is in Washington on leave, saw President Wilson today and later made a statement defending the administration against charges that Americans have been humiliated by the foreign policy of the United States.

"The only Americans who have been humiliated," said Ambassador Page, "are the expatriates who live abroad. In the chancelleries of Europe the United States was never so much respected as it is today."

ROGER SULLIVAN VICE PRESIDENCY BOOM IS GROWING

Illinois Leader Expects Tammany Support, Despite Slate Call for Marshall.

The Roger Sullivan-for-Vice President boom received much new life today, according to the steering committee which has charge of the Illinoisian interests. The Illinois "boss" feels confident of getting the 90 votes which Boss Charles F. Murphy of Tammany controls, these boosters say.

Few of the Democratic leaders here accept the Sullivan boom seriously, but it is adding a needed color to the rather drab tone of the preliminaries. The renomination of Vice President Marshall being assured, it is generally believed that the point to be gained is rather to make sure the supremacy of Roger Sullivan over Gov. Dunne and Senator J. Hamilton Lewis in Illinois politics, rather than to wish an unwanted job on the adroit Chicago politician.

To further the vice presidential boom and to give it greater substance of life, 1000 uniformed marching men are to arrive tomorrow night to whom things up for Sullivan.

These supporters will wear gray Palm Beach suits, uniform straw hats, and each will carry a cane. They will march every day, and the Illinois delegation hopes to have their numbers augmented by delegations from across the river, who will make daily trips to St. Louis.

Sullivan was busy today obtaining tickets from his friends on the committee who had more tickets at their disposal than they could use. In this way his friends hope to obtain seats in the convention hall for many Sullivan supporters.

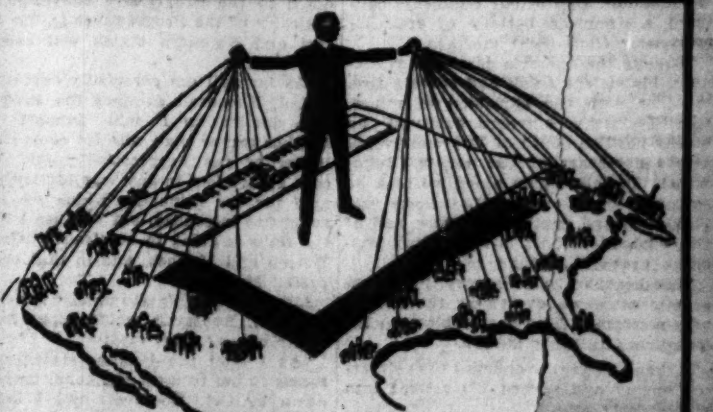

James M. Daley, chairman of the Cook County delegation, who heads the Sullivan Steering Committee, enthusiastically pointed out the advantages which would accrue to the ticket if Sullivan's name were put on it.

"It would help Wilson to carry Illinois and would make it stronger in every state," he said.

Sullivan himself refused to talk, but Charles B. Brennan, who is frequently spoken of as the best politician in Chicago, said that he had just seen Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey. Morgenthau said that he had a telegram from Jacob Schiff, New York financial power, which, said, in effect: "A stronger man than Marshall must be found for Vice President."

T. R. CLOSES GATES AND REPEATS "I AM OUT OF POLITICS"

Tells Newspaper Men Over Telephone That He Will Answer No Questions.

RECEIVES 700 TELEGRAMS

Goes to Church at Oyster Bay, but There Is No Demonstration.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 12.—Col. Roosevelt, disappointed and incommunicative, closed the gates of Sagamore Hill yesterday and refused to see newspaper men.

When called by telephone from the Oyster Bay Inn, the Colonel said: "I will make no statement. I will answer no questions. I am out of politics." And he hung up the receiver.

The only callers were a few neighbors, who paid their customary Sunday morning respects to the Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt arose early and went to church. There was no demonstration when he stepped from his automobile. He bowed to a few acquaintances. After the service, when he started back for Sagamore Hill, a man on the walk yelled out a peering "Hello, Colonel," but he simply raised his hat. Fully 700 telegrams were received by him during the day. Some were from Progressives, urging him to make his race; many from Hughes men, requesting his support. Some protested against his failure to accept the nomination of his party and others were from old friends.

Intimates of the Colonel consider it altogether unlikely that he will reconsider his conditional refusal to head a third ticket. They firmly believe him when he says: "I am out of politics."

Movement Started to Boom Roosevelt for Secretary of State. NEW YORK, June 12.—Theodore Roosevelt's desire to be done with politics will not avail if a movement begun yesterday by Copeland Townsend, owner of the Hotel Majestic, in successful but Townsends has organized the "Roosevelt for Secretary of State League" and, with headquarters at the Hotel Majestic, will seek to crystallize the sentiment for Roosevelt in that office.

On hearing the news of Hughes' nomination Townsend sent a telegram to Secretary McGrath, in which he declared that Col. Roosevelt would be the ideal man for Secretary of State. He arranged yesterday to appoint a committee to make the movement national and during this week a delegation will see Col. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay in reference to the work.

Robins and Ickes to Go to Oyster Bay to See Roosevelt.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Raymond Robins, chairman of the Progressive national convention, and Harold Ickes, Progressive National Committee member, announced today that they will leave tomorrow or Wednesday for Oyster Bay to talk over the party situation with Col. Roosevelt. Ickes said the National Committee "was all at sea" when it met Saturday night. In a joint statement issued today Robins and Ickes counseled Progressives to await patiently the meeting of the National Committee, June 23, when it will be decided what action the party will take. The statement said: "Wise and loyal Progressives will wait until their National Committee reports, June 23, before taking individual action in the present crisis. Let us be patient. Resentment is a poor counselor. The needs of the country demand judgment as well as enthusiasm."

ITALIAN CABINET RESIGNS AND KING CONSULTS LEADERS

All Parties Agree That the New Ministry Must Have a National Character.

ROME, June 12.—The Italian Cabinet, headed by Premier Salandra, resigned yesterday. This action of the ministry resulted from the failure of the Chamber of Deputies to pass a vote of confidence in the Government on the presentation of the budget of the Ministry of the Interior.

All parties agree that the new Cabinet must have a national character. King Victor Emmanuel, before consulting Antonio Salandra, the resigning Premier, will seek the views of Baron Sonnino, the Foreign Minister; the Presidents of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies and the wearers of the color of the Order of Annunziata, including ex-Premiers Giolitti and Lussatti.

YOU CAN HAVE PINK CHEEKS

What causes the color to fade from pink cheeks and red lips? In a word it is thin blood.

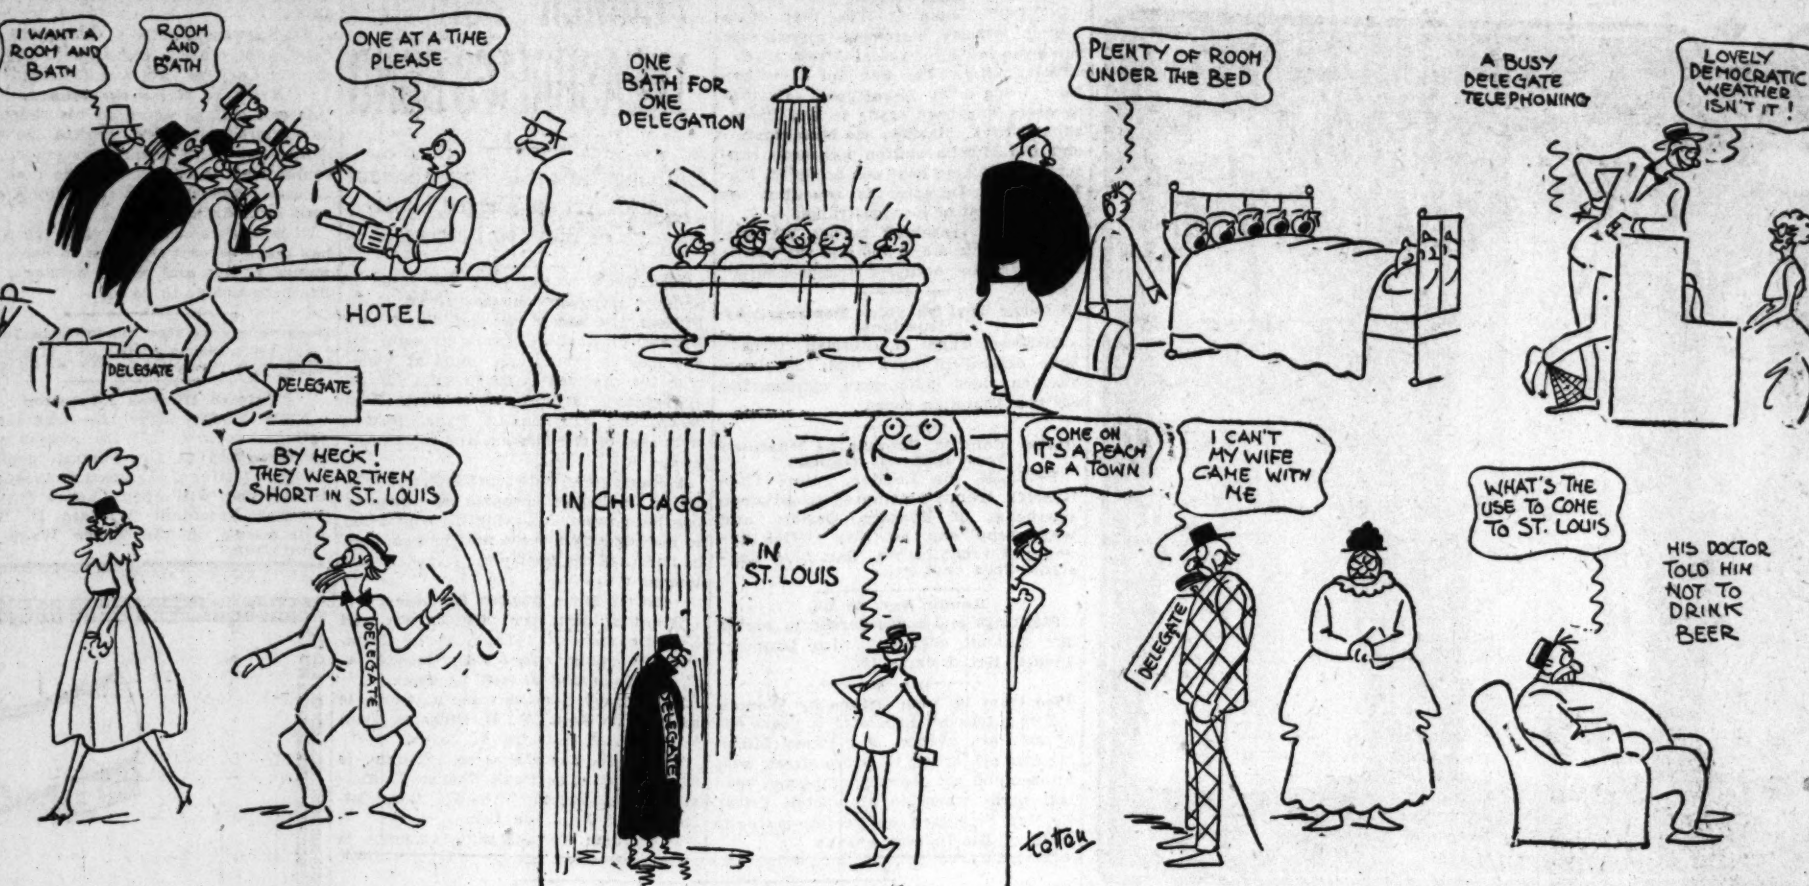

When the fading color in cheeks and lips is accompanied by a loss of brightness in the eyes and an increasing heaviness in the head, the cause is to be sought in the state of the blood.

A hundred causes may contribute to the condition of thin blood that is known as anemia. Overwork, lack of outdoor exercise, insufficient rest and sleep, improper diet, these are a few of them. The important thing is to restore the blood to normal, to build it up so that the color will return to cheeks and lips.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the great blood-builder and invigorator. They begin at once to increase the red corpuscles in the blood and the new blood carries strength and health to every part of the body. Appetite increases, digestion becomes more perfect, energy and ambition return.

A booklet, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be mailed on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50.—ADV.

First Impressions

CURIOUS CROWDS WAYLAW HUGHES IN WASHINGTON

Former Justice and His Family Attract Much Attention Since His Nomination.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Charles E. Hughes, the Republican nominee, who went to New York early today to begin his campaign for the presidency, is to meet Republican leaders returning from Chicago. Among them are Frank H. Hitchcock, leader of the Hughes boom in Chicago; Frederick O. Tanner, chairman of the New York State Republican Committee; Gov. Whitman and others. Hughes probably will return in time for the pre-departure parade here on Wednesday.

The candidate kept his plans for the trip secret and a score of newspaper men who had arranged to accompany him awoke today to find him gone.

Awakened by Curious Crowd. The new presidential candidate was the object of much interest in Washington yesterday. Many persons drove past his residence in hope of getting a glimpse of the former Justice and so many moving picture men warned about him on his way to church that the Hughes family was late to services. At Calvary Baptist Church, which Mr. Hughes attended yesterday morning, hymn No. 415 was sung, and the congregation ran away from the organ and choir when it came to the words: "His God's all-animating voice."

"That calls thee from on high; 'Tis His own hand presents the prize 'Tis His uplifted eye. The climax came when Dr. Greene preached an impressive sermon from the text, taken from I Corinthians 2, 24: "Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? Even so, run that ye may attain."

The candidates and his daughter, Miss Catherine, left home at 10:30 yesterday morning to walk two miles to church. Their way was blocked by a squad of militiamen who kept pace with them for two blocks. At the church entrance they were met by Mrs. Hughes and little Miss Elizabeth, who had driven there.

Greeted at Church Door. As they lingered outside the closed doors awaiting the end of the invocation, both Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were centers of friends pressing forward to shake hands.

After lunch Mr. and Mrs. Hughes called at the homes of all the Justices of the Supreme Court to pay farewell visits.

No Mission to Roosevelt. "I have no expectation of seeing Col. Roosevelt and no mission to see him," said Wickersham after emerging from a 35-minute talk with Mr. Hughes. "You entirely mistake the object of my visit. I have had no political relations with Mr. Hughes on this account. I am heartily and enthusiastically supporting him, of course. I think that the Progressives will give him their support and I do not expect Col. Roosevelt to head a third ticket. But that is only guesswork on my part."

Others of many who called on Mr. Hughes in the afternoon included Henry W. Taft, brother of the former President; United States Senator H. F. Lippitt of Rhode Island and William Cary Sanger, former Assistant Secretary of War under Roosevelt.

Later newspaper men sent into Mr. Hughes a request for a statement as to his position "in regard to the virtual endorsement of the German-American Alliance." The written reply brought back by one of his advisers was: "Mr. Hughes sees no reason at this time to add to his telegrams to the convention." The bearer of the message pointed out that the telegram had announced Mr. Hughes' stand for "thoroughgoing Americanism."

Fairbanks on Motor Trip: Greeted to Delegates. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 12.—Charles W. Fairbanks left Indianapolis yesterday by automobile for Delaware, O., to attend the annual meeting of the trustees of the Ohio Wesleyan University, Monday and Tuesday, on Wednesday he will motor to Canton, O., to attend the annual meeting of the trustees of the McKinley Memorial Association on the following day. He gave out the following statement: "I prize more the loyal, faithful, untiring support of the Indiana delegation and other friends than any possible honor of the Chicago convention. No man ever had a more generous support, under similar circumstances. I am grateful to every delegate and alternate from the bottom of my heart. I shall always remember such service with a gratitude which is inexpressible."

Among the first to extend congratulations to the nominee was Vice President Marshall, who is here at his home, a few blocks from the home of Fairbanks.

Wickersham Thinks Progressives Will Support Hughes.

NEW YORK, June 12.—George W. Wickersham, former Attorney-General, related over the work of the Chicago Republican convention, yesterday predicted a thorough amalgamation of Republicans and Progressives which would put Hughes into the White House "by the normal majority Republican vote." He denied reports from Washington that he would run the campaign for Hughes and was scheduled for the national chairmanship.

"I look for the nomination of Mr. Hughes to reunite the Republican and Progressive parties," Wickersham said. "I look for a practical amalgamation of the two votes. There will be some extremists, of course, among the Progressives who may not vote the Republican ticket. I have not had time to figure what percentage of the Progressive vote these men constitute, but the nomination of Mr. Hughes will reunite the party. And I predict that Mr. Hughes will be elected President in November through the united Republican vote which he will have—normal Republican vote."

Dispatches in today's papers state that the German-American Alliance and many German newspapers have come out for Mr. Hughes. That's due to a wish rather than expectation. Hyphenates are not likely to get any comfort out of Mr. Hughes, who stands for straight Americanism. They probably take their stand from speeches which Mr. Hughes made before there was any question of a hyphenated vote or divided allegiance, speeches in which Mr. Hughes praised the good qualities of German-American citizens.

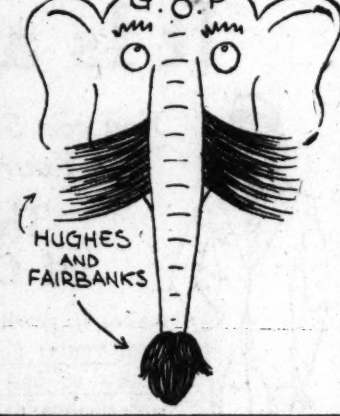

"These speeches were made when there was no such thing considered as primary allegiance to Germany and secondary allegiance to the United States."

Senators Cummins and Norris in dorse Hughes heartily. WASHINGTON, June 12.—Senator Cummins of Iowa and Senator Norris of Nebraska both have endorsed Charles E. Hughes heartily.

"I have been confident all along that in the event of Mr. Hughes' nomination Col. Roosevelt would refuse to head a third ticket," Senator Norris said.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS. WASHINGTON, June 12. SENATE. Not in session.

"Hughes will be satisfactory to all factions, though personally I have worked for Cummins' nomination and would have preferred to see him named. However, Mr. Hughes will head a winning ticket next November."

"It was a very good nomination," said Senator Cummins, "and I hope and believe the ticket will be elected. I shall do anything in my power to that end. The question whether or not I will stump for him has not arisen yet. I have nothing to say about Col. Roosevelt's attitude."

WOMAN LOSES SUIT TO SHARE IN ADOLPH LANG ESTATE

Judge Overrules Motion of Mrs. Sarah Hurwitz to Require Administrator to Produce Alleged Will. Probate Judge Holtkamp today overruled the motion of Mrs. Sarah Hurwitz of Springfield, Mo., that Sigmund J. Lang be required to produce the will of Adolph Lang, his brother, which she alleged was in existence.

Adolph Lang was found dead Feb. 24, 1916, on Sarah street between Lindell boulevard and Maryland avenue. He had been shot. Sigmund Lang took charge of his estate on the supposition that there was no will. Mrs. Hurwitz alleged that Adolph Lang left a will, in which he gave her a diamond ring and a $4000 accident policy, and that Sigmund Lang knew about it. The finding of the Judge is in favor of Sigmund Lang, who will continue to administer the estate.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, June 12. SENATE. Not in session.

NEITHER CITY HALL NOR COURT BUILDING DECORATED

Mayor Kiel Says No One Suggested It as Also Does Commissioner McKelvey.

Citizens who passed the city hall and Municipal Court Building this morning were surprised that there were no decorations on these buildings other than the customary flags, although many of the business houses downtown were gayly draped in bunting and flags in honor of the Democratic convention. When Mayor Kiel was asked about it by a Post-Dispatch reporter he said no one had suggested it and it had not occurred to him that these buildings be decorated. He referred the reporter to Building Commissioner McKelvey.

McKelvey said it had not been brought to his attention and that he had overlooked it. He at once called in employees of his department and ordered them to get out all the bunting and flags which have been used for that purpose before and decorate the two municipal buildings. Mayor Kiel called attention to the fact that the dial of the large clock in the city hall tower has been newly painted and that the large welcome signs on the Market street and Twelfth street sides have been repainted and furnished with new electric lights.

PERKINS REGARDS HUGHES AS NEXT BEST MAN TO T. R.

Five Men Mentioned in Discussions of Who Will Run Justice's Campaign.

CHICAGO, June 12.—George W. Perkins, Oscar S. Straus, Gifford Pinchot, Bainbridge Colby and other Progressive leaders remained over in Chicago yesterday and there were numerous conferences among them.

Perkins has let his friends know that, while he deeply regrets the refusal of the Republicans to nominate Roosevelt, he feels well satisfied with the Republican platform and looks on Hughes as perhaps "the next best" to the Colonel as presidential candidate. This also is the view of Nathan Straus, William H. Childs and other Progressive leaders. Hitchcock issued this statement last night:

"I am not a candidate for the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee or for public office of any kind. My activities before and in the convention were prompted solely by the desire to assist in rendering what I conceive to be an imperative service. Although fully aware that Justice Hughes was not a presidential candidate and preferred to remain on the bench, I could not believe that he would refuse to respond to the call of his party at this critical time. In co-operating with others for the accomplishment of his nomination I acted entirely upon my own responsibility and without the slightest intimation of his approval or acquiescence. "His nomination was the result of an insistent popular demand that finally gained expression in the unanimous call of the convention. To the privilege of participating in a movement so filled with promise of Republican victory is satisfaction enough. I shall gladly leave to others the arduous work of conducting the national campaign."

Five names are mentioned as possible candidates for chairman of the Republican National Committee and manager of the Hughes and Fairbanks campaign of the political discussions of the subject by Republican leaders here. They are:

Hitchcock, whose home is in New York; Ralph E. Williams of Oregon; Joseph B. Keating of Indiana, Fred C. Tanner of New York and Charles B. Warren of Michigan.

Hitchcock was vice chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1904 and was in charge of the New York headquarters during the campaign of Theodore Roosevelt. In 1908 he was chairman of the Republican National Committee and managed the campaign of William H. Taft.

Williams is National Committeeman from Oregon, one of the first states to declare for Hughes. Tanner is Republican State chairman of New York and was an active supporter of Hughes.

Keating is a life-long friend and close political associate of Mr. Fairbanks. Warren is National Committeeman from Michigan.

Seven, Twelve and Twenty-Two Cents Among Amounts Bestowed for Carrying Baggage. Many delegates and visitors arrived at Union Station this morning. F. L. Schleicher and 12 assistants, representing the St. Louis Conventions Bureau, were kept busy distributing pamphlets containing a guide to St. Louis and a list of rooming houses where accommodations might be had at reasonable rates.

Miss Ora McDonald of 3863 Botanical avenue was at the station to welcome suffragists on their arrival. The Union Station ushers who contributed $1 each to the convention fund, received a weird assortment of tips, but no large ones.

One visitor gave an usher 7 cents for carrying his heavy grip to a street car. A 12-cent tip and a 22-cent one were also reported. It was the verdict of the ushers that the Democrats seemed to have cornered the visible supply of pennies.

PRESIDENT WILL CHOOSE HUGHES' SUCCESSOR SOON

Already Considering Names and May Make Appointment Within Two Weeks.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Selection of a successor to Charles E. Hughes on the Supreme Court already is being considered by President Wilson. The appointment may be made within the next two weeks.

Although the Supreme Court adjourns today until October, officials of the Department of Justice will be pleased at the early appointment of a new Justice that he may give consideration during the summer to cases now pending. This is considered almost imperative in view of the fact that Justice McReynolds is barred from participating in the consideration of several of the most important cases because he took part in presenting them to the court as Attorney-General.

It is understood that the President would like to appoint John W. Davis, Solicitor-General, but may be deterred from doing so because Davis prepared a number of cases now pending for the Department of Justice.

Several messages urging the appointment of former President Taft have been received, but the President is expected to name a Democrat since the court now has five Republicans and three Democrats.

The Republicans are Associate Justices McKenna, Holmes, Day, Pitney and Vandewater. The three Democrats are Chief Justice White and Associate Justices McReynolds and Brandeis.

The men mentioned most prominently to fill the vacancy are: Franklin K. Lane of California, Secretary of the Interior, an eminent lawyer who was seriously considered by President Wilson; the occupant of Associate Justice Lamar's seat, which Justice Brandeis fills.

Attorney-General Gregory, Solicitor-General Davis, Samuel Undermyer of New York, who, the opinion is, can scarcely hope for a seat on the same bench with Justice Brandeis.

Senator O'Gorman of New York and former Secretary of War Garrison are also mentioned, but to neither is President Wilson extremely friendly.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN GANGWAY WITH HIS SKULL CRUSHED

William Adams, 57 years old, was found dead in a gangway adjoining his home at 2221 East Clarence avenue, at 7:35 a. m. today. His skull was crushed. He had been ill for several months and the police are investigating to learn if he fell or jumped from a second-story bedroom window.

Eugene Desbassailles, 61 years old, 213 De Soto avenue, died yesterday from paralysis, probably caused by falling out of bed. Desbassailles lived with his wife, Elizabeth, and had four children.

SUFFRAGE FORCES DIVIDE ON DEMANDS UPON DEMOCRATS

One Faction Wants Plank in Platform, Other Action by Present Congress.

MRS. CATT CONFIDENT

Believes Majority Party Will Declare for Votes for Women.

Suffragettes of the newly organized Woman's party and the National American Woman Suffrage Association today made demands for two widely different actions on their issue upon Democratic leaders.

The national organization, headed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, insisted upon a declaration for suffrage in the Democratic platform while the Woman's party representative, through its chairman, Miss Ann Martin, declared that unless the convention Resolutions Committee demands immediate adoption of the Susan B. Anthony amendment by Congress, her organization will declare war.

"There is no use to delay," Miss Martin declared today. "The party has the votes in Congress to pass this amendment if it so desires. We will present our last move and the leaders can do as they choose. The time for declarations of good intentions and friendliness is past. With 4,000,000 voters in 12 states clamoring for universal suffrage, we demand action."

Senator Hollis of New Hampshire was the first leader interviewed today by the Woman's party representatives. He declared that he had no idea the present Congress would be able to pass the amendment, even if Democratic leaders so desired.

Mrs. Catt expressed confidence that the Democrats would put a suffrage plank in their platform. She regards the declaration of the Republican platform as a distinct advance even though it was not a declaration for a constitutional amendment.

The ambiguity of the suffrage declaration in the Republican platform may be straightened out in a few days by a statement from Charles D. Hilles, Senator Borah or some other Republican leader, suffrage leaders of all organizations heard here today. Hilles insists, Miss Alice Paul of the Congressional Union said, that the plank puts the party on record for suffrage, and does not intend to say that the states should deal with the question separately, but merely recognizes that they have this right. Only a few of the suffragists interpret the declaration in that way, however, and they are demanding a formal statement of the Republican attitude.

An effort also will be made to have Justice Hughes declare unequivocally for suffrage in his speech of acceptance.

A declaration for woman suffrage in the Democratic platform, suffrage leaders insist, will mean added thousands of votes for President Wilson and the rest of the ticket this fall.

Many political observers predict that inasmuch as the nominations virtually are conceded in this convention, the most interesting fight will center on the suffrage issue. Peace and prohibition, of course, will attract much attention, but if the picturesque appeals to the delegates plunked for the week have any of the effect the leaders expect the two former issues soon will be overshadowed by the question of equal rights.

Twenty-Two Women Delegates. Neither delegates, leaders nor crowds will be permitted until the last moment of the convention to forget suffrage. There will be street parades and other demonstrations and 22 women will sit in

How Suffragists Will Look When They Line Up in the "Golden Lane" on Locust Street Wednesday

The Democratic convention, thirteen will be delegates with the privilege of ballot for presidential and vice presidential nominees and nine are alternates.

The women delegates to the Democratic convention are Nancy Kirkland of Denver, Colo.; Mrs. W. A. Harris of Lawrence, Kan.; Mrs. Nora F. Rasmussen of San Francisco; Miss Mary E. Foy of Pasadena, Cal.; Mrs. W. C. Tyler of Los Angeles; Mrs. Bird E. Hodby, El Centro, Cal.; Mary A. Monroe, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. M. B. Harter, Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Harrison B. Foster, Tacoma, Wash.; Mrs. Elizabeth D. Christian, Spokane, Wash.; Teresa M. Graham, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Mrs. B. T. Pyper and Mrs. H. Y. Hayward of Salt Lake City, Utah. The women alternates are: Mrs. T. S. Tallafiero, Rock Springs, Wyo.; Mrs. Mary Bellamy, Laramie, Wyo.; Mrs. Mattie B. Hale, La Crosse, Kan.; Mrs. J. E. Drennan, Arkansas City, Kan.; Mrs. R. J. Ehnman, Canton, Kan.; Mrs. Georgia C. Ormsby, Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. Virginia M. Spinks, Berkeley, Cal.; and Cora F. Foy, Pasadena, Cal., and Mrs. H. E. Fletcher, Hereford, Ariz.

Among this delegation are women prominent in all walks of life, not a few of whom have at least state-wide reputations in the business and educational, as well as the social world. Mrs. William A. Harris is the widow of the late Senator Harris; Mrs. Mattie Britt Hale is a practicing attorney of La Crosse, Kan., and Mrs. Mary A. Monroe is an educator.

Dr. Anna Shaw, regarded as the dean of suffragists, arrived in St. Louis yesterday. She is stopping at the home of Mrs. Nell A. McMillan, 5125 Lindell boulevard. Miss Mabel Vernon, field secretary for the Western states, and Mrs. Robert Baker, a member of the Congressional Union for Suffrage, also are here.

"Golden Lane" Wednesday. "Those are the women who will be in the spotlight, but aside from them there is an optimistic little army working out other details of the campaign. There are the various national, state and local committees who will appear before the Democratic committee and those who have charge of the "Golden Lane" demonstration, set for Wednesday, the opening day of the convention, which is expected to be as colorful a display as ever has been made in this country in behalf of the cause. Epitomized, it will be two lines composed of thousands of women ranged along 12 city blocks through which Democratic delegates must pass from their headquarters to the convention hall. The title, "Golden Lane," comes from the fact that they will wear suffrage colors, yellow sashes and carry yellow parasols.

And during two hours every woman on the lane will be forbidden to utter a single word. "Gen." Florence Updegraff, who has charge of the "battle plans," so willed today. She thinks her order will be carried out and the demonstration will be mute save for one exception: "Suffrage Plank," the mascot of the St. Louis suffragists, it is feared, may not be able to restrain his emotions. He is a donkey.

The "General" is from the suffrage army of the East, New York being her home. She was brought here especially to organize the parade. On her desk lay blueprints of the territory to be covered, little pegs show the high spots along the line of march and the "General" with a quick glance can tell where her aide, from colonels down to rookies, will be standing when the "Golden Lane" takes its final formation. The women will stand four feet apart. One camp stool will be provided for every two.

Tableau the Climax. The climax of the demonstration will be a tableau before the old Art Museum at Nineteenth and Locust streets. "Liberty" posed on a pedestal will be the center of a pyramid formation. On one side of her, facing the sun and dressed in gray gowns, will be figures representing the 15 states in which women are partly enfranchised. Another group of a similar number dressed in mourning and with their backs to the sun will represent states in which women are wholly disfranchised. Their heads will be bowed and their faces shrouded in black veils. Figures representing fully enfranchised states will wear white gowns. Other women, in gala costumes, will represent voting countries.

the enemy a moment's respite, place in strong relief the fact that they have forced the enemy's organization lines on the vast front from the wooded region of Southwest Russia to the Rumanian frontier.

The military critics warn the people that the great trial of strength between Gen. Brusilov and Gen. von Linsingen is yet to come.

Scenes of excitement in the trenches and villages where the reserves were stationed when the word of the proposed advance came on Saturday, June 3, are told by a Captain of a Siberian regiment. Where possible, religious services were held.

"Next day," he continued, "after a tremendous bombardment, the first, second and even the third lines of Austrian trenches were easily taken. Our losses were light. But in the strongest positions in the rear, the enemy made a desperate stand with machine guns, bombs and prepared mines. Here we suffered more heavily. It was necessary to storm the positions. This our men did with splendid courage and determination.

"As soon as we came within reach with the bayonet the Austrians gave up, whole companies throwing down their arms. They appeared to have no heart for bayonet work.

"On we went, leaving heaps of dead behind. Sometimes we had to take defensive positions against counter attacks. My corps withstood eight in succession, repulsing them and then charging again. Through the breaches in their front our cavalry poured in, some instances riding into the demoralized rear, slashing, spearing and yelling like demons as they rode.

"Entire regiments of Austrians were cut off and surrendered. There was a continuous stream of prisoners to the Russian rear. Among the prisoners were many German-speaking officers and a thousand German soldiers who had been incorporated in the Austrian regiments."

French Repulse Infantry Attacks West of Fort Vaux. PARIS, June 12.—German infantry attacked French positions west of Fort Vaux on the Verdun front last night. The assault failed entirely, the official report of today says.

The Germans continued their heavy bombardment in the region north of Souville and Tannets forts. West of the Meuse there was a heavy artillery action in the vicinity of Chattancourt.

Two Swedish and a Norwegian Ship Are Sunk. LONDON, June 12.—A Reuter dispatch from Malmö, Sweden, says that the Swedish steamer Emmy, 496 tons, has been destroyed by a mine off Falsterbo. The dispatch says that one of the crew was killed by the explosion and four others drowned. The Norwegian steamer Prosper III, 429 tons, has struck a mine and sunk. The first officer of the vessel is believed to be the only survivor. She sailed from Newport News, May 29, for La Pallice, France.

Striking a mine off Sandhanan Island of the archipelago at the entrance to Stockholm, the Swedish steamship Para, 1886 tons, sank at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The crew was saved. In shipping circles here it is believed the vessel ran into a field of anchored German mines.

Fifteen members of the crew of the Norwegian steamer Bur, 194 tons, have been landed at Ymuden, Holland. They report that their ship was sunk by either a mine or a torpedo.

Passengers and Crew of Sunk Norwegian Ship Reach Marseille. MARSEILLES, June 12.—The passengers and crew of the Norwegian steamer Rauma, which was sunk by a submarine in the Mediterranean, May 30, have arrived here.

A dispatch from London, June 2, reported that the Rauma of Bergen had been sunk in the Mediterranean, but did not specify the agent of her destruction. The Rauma was a vessel of 348 tons.

Austria Admits Withdrawal of Forces in Northwestern Bukovina. VIENNA, June 12.—The Austrian official communication issued yesterday admits the withdrawal of the Austrian forces before "a great superior enemy" in Northwestern Bukovina, where the fighting is extraordinarily heavy.

British Report Progress in German East Africa. LONDON, June 12.—The text of a British official statement announcing successes in German East Africa says: "East Africa: The Pangani River has been bridged at Mikotsheni. Further progress has been made in the Usambara district. Masinde has been reached and the Mombasa station has been captured. Myalomo has been occupied. Major-General Deventer is engaging the Germans east of Kondoa-Irangi. "On the Nyasaland border we captured a field gun and booty in the Poroto Mountains and occupied Bismarckburg."

7 SUITS FILED ON FORMER SCHOOL TREASURER'S BOND

Outlying East St. Louis School District Act on Alleged Shortage of Stephen LePage.

Silas Cook, an attorney for Jesse T. Geddes, Herman Schuerman and A. P. Bonaau, trustees of the Outlying School District of East St. Louis, at noon today filed in the Circuit Court at Belleville the precepts in seven suits for an aggregate of $800,000 against State Representative Stephen LePage, former treasurer of the district, and his bondsmen.

A shortage of between $37,000 and $42,000 in LePage's accounts as treasurer has been found following his confession to his bondsmen, some months ago, that he had used the money in private investments.

"$80,000 Debt, $50,000 Damages." The first suit, for "$80,000 debt and $50,000 damages," is against LePage, Fred Warning, Charles B. Goedde, A. P. LePage and Joseph LePage.

The second, for the same amounts, is against LePage, R. E. Gillespie, Paul W. Abt and Maurice V. Joyce.

The third, for the same amounts, is against Joyce, LePage, Thomas L. Fekete, E. W. Brichler, Goedde, Abt, Gillespie and A. J. de Hann.

The fourth, for the same amounts, is against LePage, Abt, Goedde, Joyce and F. T. Joyner.

The fifth, for the same amounts, is against LePage, Abt, Fekete, H. J. de Hann, Goedde and Joyce.

The sixth, for the same amounts, is against LePage, Fekete, Abt and Goedde.

The seventh suit is for "$40,000 debt and $20,000 damages," and is against LePage, Abt and Fekete.

Tried to Raise the Money. After LePage admitted his shortage he declared he would realize enough money out of his holdings to square accounts with the district by the time his successor was installed. He did not succeed in doing so.

It is understood that since then he has made several attempts to raise the money on his real estate holdings, but has been unable to do so.

DARKENS YOUR GRAY HAIR

Harmful Dyes Abolished. A Great Gift to the Gray Haired.

While it is no disgrace to have gray, streaked or prematurely gray hair, it is unnecessary in this day and time. Simply shampoo your hair and scalp with Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer. After doing this a few times not a trace of gray can be seen, but all your gray hair and entire head of hair will have become so evenly dark, soft, fluffy and healthy that no one would suspect you had applied Q-Ban. It is no dye, but a ready-to-use liquid, absolutely harmless and very pleasant to apply to hair and scalp. Stops dandruff and falling hair. Ready to use (no mixing with anything else.) ## LONDON PAPERS SPECULATE ON WAR POLICY OF HUGHES

Times Predicts Political Campaign Will Be Most Important Since Civil War.

LONDON, June 12.—The morning newspapers today devote considerable space to the result of the national conventions in Chicago. The articles include discussions of the probable attitude of Col. Roosevelt, as well as speculation on the probable standpoint of Hughes toward the European war. "The Republican party conducted its convention with simplicity and discipline," says the Times. "The campaign between Mr. Hughes and President Wilson probably will be the most important and most bitter since the Civil War, for behind the immediate issues involved lies the whole problem of the attitude of the United States toward the largest questions of international policy. "The position of Col. Roosevelt admittedly is difficult. He sees the largeness of the issue involved as clearly as any of his contemporaries, but time and will be needed to educate his party into a coalition with the Republicans. "Whoever becomes President, the ultimate decision of how far America is to take a share in the common burdens and tasks of other progressive peoples of the world ultimately rests not with the new President, but with the American people."

New York Tribune, Advocate of Roosevelt's Nomination, to Support Hughes.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The New York Tribune, in an editorial today, says: "The Tribune will loyally support Charles E. Hughes."

"From the morning of the Lusitania disaster to the present hour this newspaper has fought for certain principles which it believed to be vital in American life. For many weeks it has advocated the nomination of the American who championed these principles most fearlessly and uncompromisingly. The man has been defeated. The principles are not included in the Republican platform and they will not be found in the statement issued by Mr. Hughes after nomination."

"In so far, then, as these principles are concerned, Mr. Hughes and Mr. Wilson stand on the same ground as yet. "But the Tribune purposes to support Mr. Hughes because it believes that in all other respects Mr. Hughes is the stronger man and will make a better President."

Paris Newspapers Change Attitude Toward Hughes.

PARIS, June 12.—That the Paris press regards the elimination of Col. Roosevelt in the American political situation as complete is most clearly shown in the change in its attitude toward Hughes, whose alleged pro-Germanism, so bitterly dwelt upon only yesterday, is today almost forgotten. The Echo de Paris refers to him as "the strongest man available," and points out that even if there should be a Progressive ticket, it will have far less attraction to voters than in 1912. Le Journal, which blames the machine and the "hate of powerful financiers" for Roosevelt's downfall, says of Hughes:

"One cannot commit a greater error than to establish a solidarity between the victor of yesterday and German-American interests. Nothing is more natural than for them to try to compromise on the only candidate who was not obliged to pronounce himself against them. Those who regard Hughes as little favorable to the allies are preparing great surprises for themselves." L'Ouvre raps pro-Germans for having annexed Hughes without his consent, and insists Hughes never has taken sides on any question of external policies, but adds, "Many electors have lacked perspective" in turning down Roosevelt. Even Maurice de Waleffe, in the Paris Midi, who has consistently linked Hughes with pro-Germanism, now merely observes:

"The French press could not be favorable to Hughes, who, however innocent he was of forwarding the boom which the German-Americans organized in his name, has nevertheless maintained during these last days a silence too prudent, in striking contrast with the splendid frankness of Col. Roosevelt."

Two Socialist organs, Humanite and Bonnet Rouge, point out how ill-advised it was for the French press to support Roosevelt so vehemently as now their enemies can claim that the Colonel's defeat is really a blow at the allies.

In the former newspaper Pierre Renaudel, the Socialist's leader in the Chamber of Deputies, even ventures to defend Wilson, in which attitude he stands entirely alone. Renaudel writes: "And why, after all, should our journalists have felt obliged to oppose Wilson? The President of the United States has always spoken firmly to Germany. He has struck with blows which will be remembered the war policy pursued by the central empire. He has developed a conception of international rights which is our own and which we would like to see crown the terrible events we are living through. What more can we legitimately demand of him?"

Only Georges Clemenceau in L'Homme Enchaîné clings steadfastly to Roosevelt. In an editorial entitled "Teddy," he urges the American people to meditate on the injunctions sent to them by the Colonel from Oyster Bay and without any comment on Hughes, concludes thus:

"For the honor of America it would be well that a people sprung from European liberties should make its contribution, moral at least, toward our forthcoming victory of force which will be a victory of right."

JOHN V. STEEGER, PIANO MAN, FOUND DEAD IN RESERVOIR

Members of Family Think He Fell into Water, Police That He Was Attacked.
CHICAGO, June 12.—John V. Stee- ger, president of the Steeger Piano Co. and rated as being a millionaire, was found dead in a reservoir 12 feet deep in the town of Steeger yester- day. He founded the town 25 years ago and it is the center of his piano industry. Not long ago there was a strike, accompanied with violence, in Steeger's factories. The police are inclined to believe that he was at- tacked. Bruises were found on his body. Members of his family said it was his habit to walk to the reser- voir each Sunday afternoon and feed the goldfish and that in their belief he had fallen in.
Steeger, a native of Germany, came to America when 17 and got work in a cabinet making shop. He made it his habit to save half of what he earned in the early twenties when he came to Chicago, where he built up a fortune in the piano business. He was 45 years old.

ADMINISTRATOR NAMED IN SUIT FOR BERNERO ESTATE

H. A. Baker Appointed to Serve Pen- dente Lite in Boy's Action Over $1,000,000 Property.
Henry A. Baker was today appointed administrator pendente lite of the es- tate of Mrs. Theresa L. Bernero, who died in 1912, leaving a will in which she bequeathed most of her $1,000,000 estate to her sister and the children of the latter.
Suit was filed shortly after her death by Louis Bernero, son of an adopted son of Mrs. Bernero, to break the will. Application was made shortly after the will was filed for the appointment of an administrator pendente lite, but no ap- pointment was made, because the right of the boy to maintain the action was challenged by the defense. The Su- preme Court has now decided that the boy has a right to maintain the action. In the will the only bequest to the boy was $10,000 for his education. He is claiming the entire estate. The de- fense is that the adoption of his father by Mrs. Bernero and her husband did not confer the rights of a grandson on this plaintiff. Baker will be required to give a bond of $200,000.

CROWS FOUND TO BE GOOD FOR FOOD AND OLD ONES YIELD FAT

German Doctor Suggests Their Util- ization to Government as Result of Field Experiences.
FRANKFURT, Germany, June 12.—From experience in the field of Rus- sia, Dr. Adolf Schnee is convinced, and has suggested to the German Govern- ment, that young crows are a tasty and valuable source of food, and that the old tough birds that follow the armies by the tens of thousands are a source of fat that can be used in making soap, if not in preparing food for human beings.
Under the skin of each bird he has found there are layers of fat of a par- ticularly desirable character. In addition, the organs of the birds are surrounded by fat which differs merely in color and smell from the fat of other animals that is regularly used. From 100 full-grown crows there can be obtained, he says, fat which yields some seven to eight kilograms (14 to 16 pounds) of lard.
Even the meat of the old crows is edible, says Dr. Schnee. If it is put through a pickling process of some four to six weeks with onions, and then served with a kind of cabbage. In taste it is similar to pickled wild boar.

20 MEN DESTROY DAM OF OKLAHOMA CITY WATER WORKS

Town Threatened With Shortage of Water—Farmers Whose Land Was in Danger of Inundation Accused.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., June 12.—Oklahoma City today faced two grave dangers to its water supply as a result of the destruction of its waterworks dam across the North Canadian River last night by 20 men, believed to have been farmers, whose land contiguous to the river was threatened with inunda- tion.
Should the waters recede before re- pairs can be made a water shortage is believed certain. The other danger is that the river may form a new channel. Guards who had been placed at the dam in anticipation of an effort to cut it, were powerless to prevent the work of the men, who escaped before as- sistance could arrive from the city.

POLICEMEN SAY REAL BEER WAS SERVED AND NOT NEAR BEER

Defendant Declares That What He Sold Was a Nonintoxicating Beverage.
The question of how near is near-beer to real beer will be answered when the police submit the case of Harry Fisher, 3028 Natural Bridge avenue, to the Pros- ecuting Attorney.
Two probationary patrolmen say that "when they called for real beer in Fisher's cafe yesterday they were served with real beer. Fisher says it was near-beer.
A marked dollar bill and a sample of the beverage the policemen drank are held as evidence. The drinks were served in bottles bearing the label of a non- alcoholic beer, but the patrolmen insist that regardless of the container what they drank smelled like, tasted like and was real beer.

YOU CANNOT GO WRONG In Seizing This Great Bargain

Just remember this:

Of the new Eleventh Edition of the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA, nearly 75,000 sets have already been sold at an average price of $190 a set. This means a total of $14,000,000 for a single edition of a single work. Nothing like this sale has ever been known.

There are in the United States, or the British Empire, very few distinguished men who do not own a copy of this new edition. These include presidents, executives, writers, men of every variety of occupation—men like Judge Gary, President Eliot, James J. Hill, and hundreds of others, and the King of England, and the Czar, and two Emperors.

The late Joseph Pulitzer bought 18 sets; 95 Harvard professors and their assistants own sets; 75 Columbia professors, and so on.

All of these buyers paid from $166 to $250 a set. You can now have identically the same work—line for line, page for page the same, just a smaller page and type—at one-third these prices, and on the small monthly payment plan.

About ten cents a day for a limited period does not mean a great outlay; and the possession of these splendid volumes might mean to you a difference of thousands of dollars, just from knowing perhaps one single fact which you gather therein.

It is not a bargain to pass by. One dollar, with the order form opposite, brings you the books, if you send this week.

The Last Touch of Distinction

If you have ever studied architecture or interior decoration, or house furnishing—ever so little—then you know the curious and decisive effect you may often get from just a single lucky stroke—a last touch.

In the living room, it may be just a picture or curtain; outside the house, just an individual and original chimney or door.

There is quite nothing which gives such an instant feeling of refinement and "hominess" as a handsome shelf of books; and in all the world, for this purpose, there are few sets of books to compare with the new "Handy Volume" issue of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

It is so dainty, so attractive, so compact, so distinctive. It is a genuine miracle of book-making—a thousand pages in each light handy volume. YOUR home lacks the last stroke if you do not possess it.

FAME AND FORTUNE OFT DEPEND On Very Simple Things

More than a century ago MICHAEL FARADAY, the greatest experimental genius since Galileo, found his career, and the path to fame, by a chance meeting with an old volume of the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA. Many another career has been deeply influenced through the possession of this magnificent work.

You might gain from the possession of these volumes one new fact, one new thought, which would repay many times their cost.

But unless you wish to pay much more for the new Britannica, you should send your order to-day, if possible. This week ends this great opportunity.

In order to make a tremendous reduction in the price we contracted with the publishers of the Britannica for an enormous printing; but even this big supply is nearly exhausted and in a few days our present offer must be withdrawn.

All our arrangements for this sale, and all the publishers' contracts for paper, presswork, binding, leather and so forth, were made before the war began. Everyone knows what a drastic rise in prices has come since then. Few industries have been more affected than the printing and binding trade. The publishers therefore had to notify us that they could not renew our contract.

We wish we could have gone on selling this great work at these low prices for years, for we believe that nothing which we could have offered to the public would give them more lasting value nor at a greater bargain. This is impossible, and we therefore give you this timely notice.

Next Saturday, June 17th, is the Last Day!

Now Within Your Reach!

At a bargain price—only $1 to pay now

(see below)

You Take No Risk—We Take It All

You send us a single dollar. We ship you the books. Then we allow you three weeks in which to examine them, use them, find out their value to you and every member of family. If then, for any reason whatever, you wish to return the books, you may do so and your money is refunded with freight charges both ways. In a word, it costs you nothing to examine the books. In sending your dollar, you take no risk; we take it all.

DID YOU EVER THINK

—that any man who could store his mind with one-quarter of only the basic things in the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA would be the most learned man who ever lived?
—that he would know more of the arts and sciences and literature and of history and the great achievements of mankind than any twelve men, living or dead?

- more of astronomy than Newton or Laplace?
- more of English history than Macaulay or Frothingham?
- more about the world of life than Darwin or Pasteur?
- more about the history of the New World than Bancroft or Fiske?
- more about painting and sculpture than Vasari or Faine?
- more about Africa than Stanley or Livingstone?
- more of the story of Greece than Gibbon or Grote?
- more of Rome than Gibbon?
- more about electricity than Faraday?
- more about chemistry than von Liebig?
- more about economies than Adam Smith?
- more about the human body than Claude Bernard?
- more about law and government than Sir Henry Maine?

In brief, such a man would be a modern ARISTOTLE—as ARISTOTLE was long dreamed to be—a master of all knowledge.

With the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA, you can gain a larger view of the history of the world and the achievements of men than you could gain from any other set of books that have ever been published. These 29 richly stored volumes contain in themselves all the material for a liberal education.

And this great work can now be yours for a first payment of a single dollar. But you must not delay. Saturday is the last day.

GOVERNORS TO DISCUSS TRADE PREPAREDNESS

Legislation Necessary for New Policies, Subject Before Coming Annual Session.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, June 12.—Preparedness for a larger participation in world commerce and the State and Federal legislation necessary to launch and develop new policies and new methods are to constitute the general subject to be considered by the Governors' conference which is to open its ninth annual session here Tuesday, June 27. It is announced by Miles C. Riley, secretary, that the program is to include addresses by Gov. Hiram W. Johnson of California on "A Land Settlement Policy," by Gov. Charles Henderson of Alabama on "What the South Should Do to Meet the New Economic Conditions Following the Close of the War," by Gov. E. D. Dummer of Illinois on "The Great Lakes to the Gulf Waterway," and addresses on other phases of commercial preparedness by Gov. Ernest Lister of Washington, Gov. George A. Carlson of Colorado, Gov. James Withycombe of Oregon, and Gov. George W. P. Hunt of Arizona.

Though definite announcement is not made, it is expected that Gov. Charles R. Whitman of New York and Gov. Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts will be on the program. Gov. Roland H. Spaulding of New Hampshire is to respond to the address of welcome to be delivered by Gov. William Spry, who, as Governor of Utah, will act as host to the visiting executives. Governors of most of the 48 states are expected to be present.

"Many of the Governors are very much awake to the necessity for the states and the Federal Government giving legislative aid to the work of preparing for the keener competition and less wasteful business methods which are to play an important part in world commerce immediately following the close of the great war," said Secretary Riley.

"The Governors have been watching the rapid but nevertheless effective and probably permanent changes that have taken place in European business methods. They are convinced that America must meet these changes by looking well to some of the fundamental principles underlying the business methods of the countries, and they feel that in many instances the first aid must come from the state governments."

MISS ELIZABETH POWELL, daughter of Mrs. Annette I. Powell of 526 Vernon avenue, and Stephen S. Adams, son of Mrs. S. G. Adams of 432 Washington boulevard, were married at 11 o'clock this morning in St. Mark's Church. Rev. Father P. J. O'Rourke officiated, and only the members of the two immediate families were present. Following a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's mother, the couple departed for California, where they will travel for several weeks. They will reside in St. Louis.

Mrs. L. J. Moore of 1259 Lindell boulevard has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Frances Moore, to Edward O'Neill. The wedding will take place June 26.

About 400 members of the St. Louis Country Club and their guests will attend the performance of "The Tempest" on the lawn of the club this evening. Dinner will be served preceding the play, which will be given by the Coburn Players, and a dance will take place afterwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville P. Blake and their sons, Howard and Eugene Blake of 17 Thornby place, departed Saturday for Oxford, O., to attend the commencement of Western College for Women. Mr. and Mrs. Blake's daughter, Miss Rhea Carson Blake, is one of the honor graduates.

Mrs. and Benjamin T. Cable are entertaining a party of St. Louisans at their home in Rock Island, Ill., over the week end, for their son, Philander C. Cable. Members of the party are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Potter, Misses Nancy Bates, Emma Garesche, Mary D. Jones, Nancy Scott and Virgil Lewis, Sidney Allen and Morgan Nugent, all of whom will return to St. Louis Wednesday.

Mrs. Rufus Lackland Taylor and her children of 240 North Newstead avenue departed Sunday to spend the summer in Estes Park, Colo.

Mrs. and Mrs. M. J. Mayer of 5445 Clemens avenue will be at home Thursday evening in honor of their son, Leo Loe Mayer, who will be graduated tomorrow from Soldan High School.

Mrs. James A. Henderson has come in from the Henderson country home at Bridgeton, Mo., to spend a week with friends in town and is staying at the Hamilton Hotel. She will depart next week for Columbia, Mo., where she will remain until the fall.

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds, so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life. —MRS. J. S. BARLOW, 1854 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely.

It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEAF CHILDREN GIVE SAVINGS TO AID POOR BABIES

Central Institute Sunday School Contributes to Post-Dispatch Milk and Ice Fund.

The appeal for the babies of the very poor, whom it is the cheerfully assumed mission of the girls and boys of St. Louis to fortify and sustain against ailment attending the heated term, through supplies of pure milk and free ice, promptly impressed the children of the Central Institute for the Deaf Sunday school. A contribution of $3.75 from them was acknowledged in the Post-Dispatch yesterday. The information accompanying the check, as given by Ethel M. Hillard, the principal, was that the little folk had been saving their pennies, nickels and dimes, and when their attention was drawn to the cause of the destitute infants they at once decided that the accumulated fund should go toward saving their lives. This was the first contribution from a Sunday school organization, but the Post-Dispatch is confident that several others will follow in the course of the campaign and that the number of them will exceed those of any former season.

Details of the "Children's day at Delmar," which F. Leslie Clendenen has announced for June 30, afternoon and evening, are showing expansion far beyond what was anticipated at the outset of the event for the benefit of the babies. Interest has developed in every quarter of St. Louis and in East St. Louis as well, and the call for tickets indicates in positive form that it will be in fact what the title suggests. The entertainment organized is peculiarly attractive to young and old, for few people even mildly deny the charm of the dancing act when demonstrated in its highest and purest form, as it will be in the approaching affair. To the dancing a number of features strong in appeal to the little ones have been added, including attendance upon moving picture and vaudeville shows, freedom to some of the concessions, etc., and the program of solo, duet and group dancing is especially strong in interest. Sales of tickets have been greatly stimulated by the offer by Clendenen of a ticket to his dancing class for the ensuing season for the child who disposes of the largest number. Thousands of tickets have already been placed and the youthful competitors are working with enthusiasm and conspicuous success. Anyone who desires to enter the lists can obtain tickets from Clendenen upon application at his studio, Arcade Building, Arcade and Vernon avenues.

Former Resident of East St. Louis and Belleville Sought by Relatives.

DANVILLE, Ill., June 12.—Relatives of Edgar C. Johnson, a Baptist minister, who disappeared a week ago last night after filling his evening appointment at the Newmarket Church, have sent out cards offering rewards for information regarding his whereabouts.

Union Bank to Have Novel Advertisements

That St. Louis is "To the Front" in the matter of public schools is the "key-note" of a campaign of civic publicity which is to be carried on through the daily press during this week by the St. Louis Union Bank.

The banking institution is preparing a series of five advertisements, each one containing a picture of one of the high schools, together with a short description of the school, its location, and a brief historical sketch or biographical data relating to the distinguished citizen of St. Louis after whom the school was named. The advertisements are to appear daily this week.

"It is our purpose to impress upon the thousands of visitors to St. Louis this week the great excellence and general efficiency of the St. Louis public school system," said an official of the bank. "It is something of which St. Louis is duly proud. We offer this series of advertisements as our contribution to civic publicity."

GAVIRA AGREEMENT WITH GEN. PERSHING IS REPUDIATED

Gen. Trevino Said to Have Sent Word That Pact Was Not Authorized.

LETTER WENT TO FUNSTON

Gavira Ordered to Mexico City About Time Message Was Sent to Expedition Leader.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 12.—A copy of a curt message from Gen. Jacinto Trevino to Gen. Pershing, informing him that Gen. Gavira had no authority to discuss military subjects with him has been sent by Gen. Pershing to department headquarters here.

The agreement between Gen. Pershing and Gavira had to do with disposition of troops in the territory controlled by the American expedition and was intended as a precaution that might prevent unauthorized clashes. It in no way affected the more important phases of the situation.

Gen. Gavira was ordered to Mexico City about the time Gen. Trevino sent his message to Pershing. Official advice have been received by Gen. Funston that Gen. Gavira has asked officers at Chihuahua to supply him a list of their nationals other than Americans, explaining that he wishes to know them in order to afford them protection; that he would be glad to accord protection to Americans as well but that in view of the increasing antagonism by Mexicans he regarded it as practically impossible to do so.

It became known today that only the withdrawal of Col. Sibley's force that entered Mexico after the raid at Glenn Springs prevented an attack on it by Carranza troops. Army officers here have learned that a force of 1000 troops had been sent northward with orders from the Governor of Coahuila to get in contact with the American troops and force them out of Mexico.

Three Coleman Ranch Raiders Killed, Three Captured.
LAREDO, Tex., June 12.—Three of the band of Mexicans who participated in the raid on the Coleman ranch were killed and three others captured today, according to a report received here. The report did not make it clear whether the pursuers were Texas rangers or American troops in command of Capt. Welborn. Since three of the bandits were reported captured early today, this accounts for nine.

American troops sent from here early yesterday to pursue Mexican bandits who raided the ranch near San Samuel, 40 miles northwest of Laredo, did not cross the border, according to reports received by Brigadier-General Mann, commanding the Fourteenth Cavalry. The Mexicans did not succeed in driving the 50 odd horses stolen from the Coleman ranch across the Rio Grande. Gen. Mann was informed, having abandoned the animals when within two miles of the border.

George Conover, an American cowboy, captured by Mexican bandits yesterday when he and Arthur Meyers trailed the raiders of the Coleman ranch, arrived in San Samuel last night after a 30-mile trip on foot after his escape from the Mexicans.

He said the band which sought to rustle the 50 head of horses across the border was composed of five Mexicans and two Japanese. The Japanese, he said, were later captured by de facto Government troops. He and Meyers attempted to follow the Mexicans, making away with the horses and cause the animals to stampede, but they were captured. Conover said he was treated well by the Mexicans but the two Japanese wanted to hang him.

The bandits left him and Meyers at a secluded place and told the Americans to await their return. The Americans then took flight, hiding in the brush when the Mexicans came back to look for them. The searchers passed within 15 yards of the refugees.

A number of armed citizens and State rangers were dispatched to Webb, Tex., north of here, early today on a report that railroad bridges were being burned. The report was found groundless, but the rangers took in custody two Mexicans supposed to have been connected with the band participating in the Coleman ranch raid.

Anti-American Feeling Increases in Northern Mexico.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Increasing excitement and anti-American feeling throughout Northern Mexico is described in today's dispatches to the State Department. In many cases, it was said at the department, the Carranza authorities appear to be indifferent to what is going on. Neither details of the reports nor information as to the points heard from were made public, on the ground that the work of American Consuls would be handicapped.

Officials made no attempt to conceal their anxiety over the situation, which apparently is crystallizing in the Northern Mexican states. Many dispatches bearing on the subject have been received during the last 48 hours. Equally disquieting reports reached the Department of Justice from its agents along the border and in the interior of Mexico. They were turned over to the State Department.

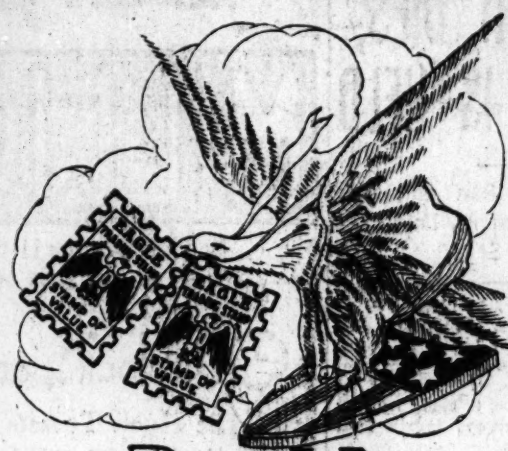

Americans Flee to Pershing's Camp to Escape Persecution.
COLUMBUS, N. M., June 12.—A party of American mining men, including several merchants from Chihuahua and Chihuahua and are said to have reached Gen. Pershing's camp at Namiquipa, Mex., on their way to the border to escape persecution by Mexicans opposed to the presence of American troops. This information was brought here today by truck drivers from Casas Grandes.

ROBISON FIELD IS BEING MADE READY FOR GRAND OPERA

All Work Will Be Finished in Time for Performance Tomorrow Night.

At sunrise this morning 50 carpenters and stage men invaded Robison Field and began erection of the sounding board platform for the "Siegfried" orchestra. This and finishing touches on the stage will put everything in readiness for the big performance tomorrow night.

The Grand Opera Committee has been able to straighten out the difficulty about chairs. Competition for "collapsible" between a national convention, the extra "As You Like It" performance announced for Tuesday, and "Siegfried" made a troublesome situation. After hurried conferences, the committee authorized the order of a carload of chairs from Chicago to arrive today.

Miss Hempel arrived Sunday morning and found quarters awaiting her at the Washington Hotel. The rest of the company arrived late last night by special train from Pittsburgh over the Wabash.

TWENTY-FIFTH RAID OF CLUB

Twelve Men Arrested Are Released at Once on Bonds.

For the twenty-fifth time in as many weeks the police last night raided the Sunshine Joy Club, 15 South Fifth street, and arrested 12 men. A quart of whiskey and a half barrel of beer were confiscated.

The prisoners were booked as suspected of violating the Sunday liquor law. The ink on the blotter where their names were entered was scarcely dry when a bondman appeared with bonds for their release, approved by Judge Clark of the Court of Criminal Correction.

The names on the bonds corresponded with the names given by the prisoners with the exception of one.

WAGE CONFERENCE RESUMED

Railroads to State Probable Effect of Granting Increase. NEW YORK, June 12.—Representatives of the chief railroads of the United States and of the unions of railroad employees resumed today their conferences over questions of wages and hours of work after an adjournment last Thursday. The delay was due to a demand by the railroad officials for a few days to prepare answers to questions submitted by the labor leaders concerning the effect of proposals made by the railroad companies.

The employees, through the officers of their unions, have explained the effect of their proposals and have insisted they have the right to a similar explanation from railroad officials.

"The Humanitarian Cult" Platform

Founded November 15, 1914

Our object is to develop between individuals a proper sense of responsibility; to create a correct understanding of the essence of true religion, and to develop the spirit of helping mankind from a sense of love rather than merely from a sense of duty.

We are absolutely non-sectarian; will not have any officers, will not incur any expenses and therefore will not levy any dues. Collections and contributions will not be permitted.

We aim to bring out the fact that the givers, being fortunate, should be thankful and grateful to the receivers for the opportunity of sharing with them their own good fortune.

We realize that the only true way of helping the unfortunates is by taking care of them personally. You then not only have the pleasure of seeing the results of your own actions, but can give, what is still more valuable, YOURSELF.

We want you to join and help us enact laws which will eliminate philanthropy and make for better conditions.

We expect you as our guest on Tuesday, June 13,
8:15 p. m. at the Odeon, "Grand and Finney Avenues."

We have no collection boxes. Do not permit contributions or donations.

We want You—Not Your Money.

OPEN LETTER TO THE DELEGATES OF THE NATIONAL, STATE AND CITY POLITICAL CONVENTIONS AND THEIR CANDIDATES

America realizes the fact that nations, like individuals, do not always show a proper sense of responsibility, and is now engaged in putting through a large constructive program of Military Preparedness. We regret to have to admit that civilization has made so little progress, but believe in looking facts squarely in the face. Realizing, therefore, that adequate military preparedness is absolutely necessary, we cheerfully subscribe to it.

Military Preparedness alone creates militarism and a desire for conquest, and we are against this spirit in any shape, form or manner.

Social Preparedness alone may create a Brotherhood of Man, which unfortunately is not always respected by a stronger power, which quickly takes advantage of the lack of military preparedness to crush that Brotherhood of Man.

Social Preparedness, which includes adequate Military Preparedness, paves the way for an almost ideal Brotherhood of Man, wherein no citizen desires conquest or offense, but is ready to use the military weapons for purposes of defense. Such a combination is sufficient to withstand attacks from even stronger forces.

Just as a parent brings out the love and respect of a child by the care it bestows on it, so does a Government develop a true feeling of patriotism and reverence for its flag by looking after the welfare of its people.

*"We're half the power that fills the world with terror,
We're half the wealth, bestowed on camps and courts,
Given to redeem the human mind from error,
There were no need of arsenals or forts."*

We ought to realize that nearly all of our social ills are due to the lack of proper Social Preparedness, and that we cannot remedy them until we have taken steps to lessen the strife between capital and labor. The best way to better the conditions of the masses is not by trying to teach or uplift the needy and ignorant, but by creating an environment that will make it possible for them to uplift themselves. To do this we must eradicate the root of the evil—poverty.

POVERTY.

We make this statement without any fear of contradiction, and are ready to prove it in public debate—

That almost 80 per cent of crime is due to poverty.

That almost 80 per cent of alcoholic excesses is due to poverty.

That almost 80 per cent of all disease is due to alcoholic excesses and poverty.

That the bitter strife between capital and labor, class hatred, greed, selfishness and all other kindred evils are directly due to poverty or man's fear of it.

Under present conditions the needy, the diseased who are without means of support or opportunity to obtain employment, are forced to apply to either public or private charity societies.

These societies are spending hundreds and hundreds of millions of dollars yearly in trying to care for the homeless, the needy, the diseased, etc., involving legitimate running expenses of over 75 per cent. The expenses are high owing to duplication of work carried on along sectarian lines.

GOVERNMENT'S DUTY TO ITS CITIZENS

We maintain that a Government owes every citizen an opportunity to perform decent work and receive decent compensation, and that the citizen should not be dependent upon the philanthropic humor of capitalists, self-appointed dispensers of kindness, who give the victims only a small percentage of that which they should have received as their right in the first place.

The Government should look after all the needy, put the unemployed army to work, care for the diseased. In that event there will be no other channels for a person to obtain relief, so the necessity for investigation will be automatically done away with, and since everyone will receive work when willing, we shall easily ascertain the underserving, lazy army, who are the real criminals. They will either have to starve or work, since there will be no bread lines or charity societies to encourage their pauperism.

Laws should be passed so as to compel them to work for the benefit of their families and the State, if need be under lock and key, and at the same time a proper sense of responsibility can be developed in them. By spending a much smaller sum of money for the cure of poverty than is being spent now in dealing with the evils resulting from it we will not only do that which a civilized country should, but will eventually effect a great saving; for the prisons then will have very few inmates, the saloons few frequenters and disease will be greatly lessened.

Our slogan, therefore is: One dollar for Social Preparedness for every dollar for Military Preparedness, and we respectfully ask that the following planks be inserted in all the platforms.

NEW CABINET PORTFOLIO

The creation of an extra Cabinet Portfolio, that of the Secretary of Welfare, who will quickly become known as the Secretary of Peace, this Secretary to have an Advisory Board of about twenty men and women—for we believe that democracy should have equal suffrage (by a national amendment)—really and sincerely interested in bettering conditions of humanity, and to be of the following caliber:

Jane Addams, Dr. Felix Adler, Howard Bradstreet, Louis Brandeis, Katherine B. Davis, Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott, Henry Ford, Rev. John Haynes Holmes, Sophie Irene Loeb, Henry Moskowitz, Thomas Mott Osborne, Dr. John Herman Randall, Rev. Christian Reiser, Oscar Straus, Lillian Wald, Rev. Stephen S. Wise, etc. (These names are used without the knowledge of these persons.)

And simultaneously there shall be established in each State a similar department, and in each Municipality a similar department, and the State and City departments shall co-operate in conjunction with the National department and assume all the work that is now being performed by charity societies, whether private or public and these departments shall receive appropriations so that they can immediately relieve the needy, provide work for all the unemployed and take care of all the diseased. We ask this not only as a matter of right for the diseased and needy, but as a matter of selfish protection to ourselves.

By providing the unemployed army with work it will automatically enable the rest of the employed army to receive higher compensations. Labor is always hampered and does not get as big a return as it should on account of the unemployed army.

Undoubtedly the first thought that occurs to one is whether there will be sufficient funds to meet such large expenditures for both Military and Social Preparedness. The same line of reasoning took place in some of the European countries now engaged in the war. They did not think they had the means to spend a few hundred million dollars to stop the sufferings of the needy and wipe out the slums, but now as much as twenty millions dollars a day is spent by some powers for the protection of their citizens, even though it results in the creation of widows and orphans.

This country, if it should have to go to war to defend itself, will likewise raise five, ten or thirty million dollars a day so as to protect all its citizens. That money will be forthcoming quickly, because the mind will be incited by fear. Why not spend money for the good of all in time of peace, which in itself might give the Secretary of War less to do and result in less expenditure later on?

JUST TAXATION.

We suggest the appointment of a Commission so that some form of a graduated income tax, both for corporations and individuals, be adopted which will make it impossible for a man to be graded in private life as wealthy and derive the advantages that come with it, yet be known in the Tax Payer's office as a pauper.

The same Commission should also adopt some form of limitation as to the amount of money one should be allowed to accumulate, and also see to it that after providing for the comfort of one's family the greater part of one's estate upon death should revert to the Government for the benefit of the rest.

Some of the European Governments are taxing profitable business to an unheard-of extent, and yet, because of the war, no one has called it revolutionary or attacked them for taking this means of best protecting their citizens.

Our proposition is to do the same in time of peace.

We maintain that man is not born to look out only for himself and his family. That is his first duty, and then he must realize that civilization demands the protection of the interest of 90% of the population, the working men, the bulwark of our country, without ignoring the interests of the rich—instead of as now, 90% are being taxed for the benefit of a small minority.

Laws should be passed for compulsory arbitration of all differences between capital and labor under the supervision of the Department of Welfare.

Laws should be passed so that every employee shall be pensioned upon reaching a certain age. Every employee shall likewise be protected against sickness or other disability. Every widow shall become the daughter of the nation and the orphan the child of the nation.

Our laws should also be changed so that widows of soldiers shall receive a decent pension, and not as now, a paltry allowance which enables no woman to make ends meet. A citizen should give his life to his country in case of need for the protection of the rest, and the country must, likewise, at the expense of the rest, look after the family of that man who has realized his sense of responsibility.

NATIONAL CONSUMPTIVE SANATORIUMS.

The first step of the Department of Welfare should be the building of National Consumptive Sanatoriums, sufficient to accommodate all who need to be treated; and the Government shall transport them to such sanatoriums free of charge and take care of their families until the bread-winner is well once more, and that an appropriation sufficiently large for this should immediately be made. I am told by one of the highest authorities on tuberculosis that within one generation the disease could be put under effective control.

Such Military and Social Preparedness will reawaken memories of our beautiful traditions, rekindle the spirit of 1776 and make the American flag the real emblem of civilization, create an understanding of true patriotism, and solve the question of Hyphenated Americanism.

It does not matter to us whether this legislation will be passed by the Republicans, Democrats, Progressives or Socialists, nor what individuals receive credit for it.

*"Others shall sing the song,
Others shall right the wrong,
Finish what I begin,
And all I fail to win."*

*"What matter, I or they,
Mine or another's day,
So the right word be said,
And life the sweeter made?"*

Our Incubables.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Permit me, through your valuable paper, read by thousands, to express my great appreciation of the editorial and tender, loving and earnest appeal of Miss D. E. Nirdlinger. She is right—an angel of mercy, with visionary eyes. I see in her a true and loving friend to working girls and helpless invalids, who become victims of incurable diseases. God bless her! Her soul-stirring appeal for a home for incurables should touch a responsive chord in the hearts of every man, woman and child in St. Louis, regardless of position or creed—touch their pocketbooks and bank accounts.

Oh, what a blessing such an institution in our great city would be to hundreds of toiling people, struggling to make an honest living, who are seized by some incurable disease, rendered penniless, and in poverty, with no one to love and care for them, watch the monster, Death, as he slowly but surely touches the vital organs with the finger of death, claim the soul and return the lifeless body to earth.

Our Lord would be pleased with such a gift to the incurables and bless the donors.

He says in His word: "I was an hungry and ye gave me meat; I was thirsty and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger and ye took me in; naked and ye clothed me; I was sick and ye visited me; I was in prison and ye came unto me. Then shall the righteous answer Him, saying: Lord, when saw we Thee an hungry and fed thee, or thirsty and gave thee drink? When saw we thee a stranger and took thee in, or naked and clothed thee? Or when saw we thee sick or in prison and came unto thee? And the King shall answer and say unto them: Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto Me." Mat. 25, 34-40.

Will the great, big-hearted citizens, who have done so much to rank St. Louis with the greatest cities in the world, please our dear Lord by providing a home for our incurables? Yes, they will, now that the issue is placed before them by one who is so fully capacitated in every way—Miss D. E. Nirdlinger.

Such a home, sanitarium or whatever you wish to denominate it can be erected in St. Louis or in the suburbs, and every man, woman and child in the city can be a stockholder. If every one would give as she or he is able—from a penny up to a thousand dollars—a place fully equipped for incurables will grace our city, and our noble people will go on record as a great people. This appeal to you is from a young girl who was made motherless by an incurable disease.

MARY R. MUNNERY.

A Thought on Preparedness.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
There have been disputes and arguments and some doubt still exists as to what country started this war, but there can be no argument, no question as to Germany's preparation when hostilities began. What was right and just for Germany is wrong and a crime for the United States of America.

You German-American, Alliance, anti-Preparedness League, please go away back, sit down and keep quiet.

WE. R. DISGUSTED.

Dangerous Open Quarries.

I, among thousands of others, would very much appreciate if through your efforts the co-operation of influential taxpayers and all law abiding citizens the greatest nuisance of this city—open, unprotected, abandoned quarries—may speedily be done away with. One of these, a disgrace to the community to which I especially refer, takes up the corner between Broadway and Eleventh street, from Bellefontaine road to Bissell street, at least 150 feet in depth. Being used as a dumping place for rubbish of every imaginable kind, and being partly filled with filthy water, it is a breeding place for disease, mosquitoes and vermin of every description.

On the Bissell street end, and especially those parts accessible to all the children of the neighborhood, it has (supposedly for protection) a rickety board fence almost three feet high, with an open space of from 12 to 14 inches below the boards. Owing to its open, unprotected condition it is a veritable deathtrap, and on June 2, 1916, another unfortunate victim, a young man, was added to the list of those that have come to their death in this quarry through the fault of these whose duty it is to protect our community from nuisances, disease breeding places and deathtraps of this kind.

With a half dozen or more children leaning against this fence and peering over the edge, others will surely be added to the list before long, unless something very decisive is done to enforce the laws of our city.

J. ECKHOLDT.

WHAT WILL PROGRESSIVES DO?

What will the Progressives do without a candidate and a platform of their own making? Will Col. Roosevelt eat the crow that has been tossed to him by the "Old Guard?"

Is it possible that the fiery Colonel and his fervid followers will forget their "convictions" and stand with the German-American Alliance and the mollycoddles on a platform of "weasel words?"

Col. Roosevelt had two planks which were conspicuous over everything else and which embodied his strongest convictions as to the paramount issues in the present "crisis." These planks were the American "crisis." He concentrated his entire pre-convention campaign on them. He denounced everybody who would not accept them.

One was military preparedness through compulsory universal military training and service. This was the necessary step, in addition to a great navy, to realize the security and destiny of the nation.

The other was a denunciation of the hyphen in America with the German-American Alliance as the target. The German-American Alliance triumphed over Col. Roosevelt in the Republican convention. It got the candidates its leaders demanded on a platform which suited it. These leaders are boasting that they controlled the Republican convention and obtained the nomination of Hughes.

They are gloating over the humiliation and repudiation of Roosevelt and his followers. There is not a hint of universal military training, not even President Wilson's "weasel words," in the Republican platform. The preparedness plank of the Republicans might be used as an endorsement of what the Wilson administration has done for the army and navy.

If Col. Roosevelt's utterances expressed "convictions" and not partisan and politic guf for merely personal and political ends he and those who backed him cannot support Hughes and this platform without giving the country the most spectacular exhibition of crawling and pussy-footing in history. They must crawl backward into the Republican camp?

Will they do it?

It looks as if the Third Term has received its final awn.

BLIND TIGER IN FOREST PARK.

The explanation of a remarkable incident at Forest Park is that Alderman Scholl had been given a permit to sell soft drinks to attendants on the al fresco performance of "As You Like It." But 88 full bottles of beer were found in a park wagon lent to the Alderman and divers empty bottles, also a bottle of whiskey and certain empty whiskey bottles.

If peripatetic drain shops on wheels are to operate in St. Louis, they should be required to take out a license and made subject to the Excise Commissioner. They should be kept out of Forest Park, to which it is unlawful even to bring intoxicants. They should not be operated with city property in a park wagon as part of the plant. Why, indeed, should city property be loaned to facilitate a private gainful speculation even in soft drinks?

While we want to make our open-air Shakespearean revival just as attractive as it is possible to make it for attendants, use of intoxicants in the park probably should be confined to the property beverages of the stage, especially any such Falstaffian proportion of intoxicants to nonintoxicants as seems to have been discovered in this instance.

DEATH-TRAP QUARRIES.

Attention of the Public Welfare Board is called to the letter, published today, complaining of a deep, unprotected quarry, in a district of the city where there are many children. It has been a death-trap, a young man having been killed there as late as June 2.

The "rickety board fence about three feet high," which surrounds this quarry, is a sample of the kind of protection to be found around many other deep quarries in the city. Some of these contain dangerous stagnant ponds, in which boys and young men come to their death by drowning.

All these unworked quarries are nuisances. But those that are being worked are too frequently unprotected by substantial fences. What fences they have are usually placed right on the edge of the precipice, so that the posts give way on pressure. Some of the fences are so rotten that they would bear no weight. And children, especially, are attracted to such places. There is a fascination about a deep quarry, and the deeper and more dangerous, the greater is this fascination.

It is the duty of the Public Welfare Board to see that everyone of these quarries is adequately protected, with substantial fencing, so placed that it cannot give way. Abandoned quarries should be filled.

COUNTRY HOME FOR INCURABLES.

A Southern Missouri banker has written to Miss D. E. Nirdlinger, president of the Josephine House, who recently made an appeal for the incurables of the State, offering to buy sufficient land, in the country, to enable those interested to start a farm, with school and other necessary buildings, as a home for those for whom the hospitals and other remedial institutions have no place.

The Missouri banker suggests that the institution, if started, should be maintained by a fund raised by the charitable institutions of St. Louis and be under the control of a Board of Curators, as is the State University.

A home such as this would have the advantage of its location in the country, with plenty of room, pure air and inspiring surroundings. The Bethesda Home, in St. Louis, is only able to care for 35 patients, and has a waiting list of incurables who must be shut out for lack of room and money. In any event, a crowded city is the worst location for such a home.

It is suggested that all those who are interested should communicate with Miss Nirdlinger, with the object of organizing a working committee, to act in co-operation with the charitable organizations, including the managers of the Bethesda Home, to carry out some such scheme for the benefit of Missouri incurables as set forth by the Missouri banker who made her the offer.

If we are to have such a home—a Missouri Home for Incurables—its creation should be shared in by all Missourians who have the means and the desire to take part in this necessary work. We have a permanent organization for the benefit of the blind. Why, any longer, allow the helpless incurables to be neglected?

With 200,000 Boy Scouts camping to improve themselves physically and to strive for usefulness, it is to be a great summer for Uncle Sam. The boys deserve a plank in the presidential platforms.

HAS MR. HUGHES AN ISSUE?

Mr. Hughes' telegram of acceptance was not written in a hurry. Evidently it was prepared, as he was prepared, during days and weeks of judicial silence to meet the occasion, which at length presented itself.

Speaking after long meditation of "this critical period in our national history" and of the "existing exigency," Mr. Hughes nevertheless meets the crisis and the exigencies with generalities and platitudes common enough when he abandoned politics in 1910, but sadly out of place today. In spite of the favor with which they regard him, his countrymen, we believe, will turn from these hackneyed expressions with pain and disappointment.

The times are indeed out of joint—so much so that a candidate hoping to displace a President who for more than three years has wisely borne crushing burdens can hardly expect to win great public approval with fragments of ancient party platforms and repetitions of campaign cries made familiar in humdrum days.

Not partial to political mysteries or antiquities, the American people will insist upon bringing Mr. Hughes down to date.

What, for instance, has President Wilson done that Mr. Hughes would not have done and what has President Wilson left undone that Mr. Hughes would have done? In the enforcement of American rights to life and property at sea, would Mr. Hughes resort to diplomacy or war? Here he must be specific. Is he dissatisfied with the settlement of the submarine issue on terms that gave this country the most notable of all its diplomatic triumphs?

In regard to the Mexican situation, would he have embraced Huerta and government by assassination and would he now assail a crippled neighbor or help him to stand erect.

So much in love with "sound protective principles" that with the industry and commerce of the world distracted by war, he would invite the attorneys of Big Business, heedless of everything but their own gluttony, to write their extortions once more into the laws of the land. Is the Americanism to which he subscribes in such general terms the Americanism that President Wilson has upheld in the face of foes, foreign and domestic, or is it the made-in-Europe Americanism?

Finally, in his unworthy and uncalled-for assault upon our devoted and overworked diplomatic representatives in Europe has he any inspiration but spoils or any fact to go upon except that the faithful men thus belittled are Democrats?

The American people have respected, the silence of the jurist bound by tradition. They will not respect the silence of the candidate.

Mr. Roosevelt represented the real opposition to President Wilson. He wanted war over Belgium, war with Mexico, war anywhere and everywhere, as long as it was war. What does Mr. Hughes want that the people want that Mr. Wilson has not given us?

THE COLONEL A GOOD LOSER.

Many of the telegrams applauded him (the Colonel) for being a good loser.—Oyster Bay News Item.
The Colonel is a famous good loser. He showed it in 1912 and at countless other times.

ALFALFA AND BUTTERMILK.

If what the Colonel did to the Progressive convention was a "cowardly stab," as Ida M. Tarbell calls it, how are we to characterize what another convention did to a man?

Mr. Fairbanks was the choice of his party for the tail of its ticket in 1904. To find himself after 12 years still regarded as of only vice presidential size and the logical nominee for the place was, of course, discouraging and humiliating. Believing himself entitled to first place or nothing, this time, Mr. Fairbanks wired the Indiana delegation Saturday to withdraw his name at once, if anybody was unkind enough to propose him for the old job. In spite of everything, the nomination was wished onto him again. How it came about Mr. Fairbanks explains in these plaintive words:

The nomination was made and convention adjourned before my dispatch was received. Can you beat it? Bad as it was for the Colonel to adjourn leaving the Progressive convention in a trap, this incident of the cowardly convention which left a V. P. nomination on an embarrassed gentleman's doorstep and ran is one of the meanest in our political history. However, the voters are not going to adjourn in any such hurry next November. Sympathizing deeply with Mr. Fairbanks' conviction that he is entitled by this time to a promotion, they can so mark their ballots as to enable him to stay at home.

How the ticket, in which alfalfa and buttermilk are linked in a delightful, dairy-like way was so completed as to threaten disaster to hopes and political fortunes in Missouri is another tale. As Mr. Fairbanks is an Indiana man, his nomination by the Republicans will greatly strengthen the Democratic plan to renominate Mr. Marshall, also an Indiana man. This, of course, puts so many crimps into Gov. Major's boom to get on the Democratic ticket as to make it look like the open work of a washboard.

The tango is drowned in a deluge of buttermilk. There is a tragic loss of money by the Colonel's friends who backed their convictions.

PANATELA.
O, Luella,
Theodorus
Is not hankering
To run;
When the elephant
Upset him
He was just
As good as done.
All the Moose
Dispose to feeling
That it leaves them
In the air,
But in politics,
My dearie,
Almost anything
Is fair.

True, he likes
To be heroic,
Just as Anybody would,
But he hesitates,
Luella,
Where the going Isn't good.
Just a simple
Show of courage
Lacking purpose,
Little dear, Isn't such A demonstration
As the centuries
Revere.

One for principle,
Luella,
Gladly gives His life away,
But there isn't Much for Teddy
On the battlefield
Today.
Mr. Hughes
Has bagged his platform
And the nomination too,
And the outlook
For heroics Has become A little blue.

Theodorus
Has his troubles,
Same as Caesar
And the rest;
Doubtless
Terrible emotions
Bubble
Underneath his vest.
Mr. Hughes'
Asseverations
May be Thoroughly sincere,
Or they may be Merely chatter
Just to tickle Teddy's ear.

It is not
A matter, dearie,
To be settled
In a day;
One must cogitate
Upon it
In a thoroughgoing Way.
One must roll

And roll it over
In the tumult
Of his heart,
There to settle Past debating What would be
A hero's part.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH ST. LOUIS.

Well—for one thing—it's just like my flat. It needs a few repairs. If my landlord doesn't fix up my plumbing pretty soon, he will find that I am no longer with him.

And if the landlords who own most of St. Louis do not make St. Louis a good place to live in, they will gradually lose their tenants to newer cities where the daily grind is softened by beautiful parks, opera houses, liberality of life—beauty, culture and refinement.

I know one St. Louis family who own a pretty big slice of the town. When the collection plate is passed, they are not interested. But when the day of Judgment comes, and they find they cannot rent their property, it would be almost worth sticking around till then to watch their agony.

Misers don't make big cities. It is necessary to improve your property—or yours for the Undertaker.

BO.

Somehow, names like Invincible, Formidable, Audacious and the like do not look well in the list of British warships sunk by the Germans. Merely to call a superdreadnought the Indestructible or the Unsinkable has no terrorizing effect upon the enemy, and once they are done for that sort of bravado leaves only the flavor of hollow boasting. We suggest that the next British unconquerable be called the Ouch.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

BEAUTY CAPTURED.
WORRIED.—Fig and senna paste is said to put torpid organs to work and thus clear the face of brown spots and eruptions. Take half pound each of figs and senna leaves. Chop down each in a stewpan with half pound sugar and half pint boiling water. Let simmer slowly 20 minutes, then pour out on oiled paper in a baking tin to cool. Take a piece about an inch square at a time, and rub it on the face at bedtime, and afterwards wash with cold water.

TEN-A.—To develop the neck, turn the head 90 degrees to the left and bend it forward toward the left shoulder. Slowly raise it and twist back to the normal position. Then turn to the left and proceed as before. The chief value of this exercise comes from doing it slowly. Remember that slow motions develop a given muscle, rapid ones reduce it. It is also a good idea to massage the neck with coconut butter.—To round chest and improve bust: Stand erect with hands on chest. Slowly stretch arms back as far as possible, keeping them on a level with the shoulders, inhaling deeply. Slowly bring hands back to first position, exhaling breath meanwhile. During this exercise keep back of neck pressed against collar, and you will find that you are sitting up well, with very little effort. By practicing this the short girl will find that she appears taller, while the tall girl, instead of looking lanky, will be called stately.

LAW POINTS.
ANXIOUS.—Illinois bill is not collectible after 5 years. (Hair is "it," not "the.")

LAW.—Government does not own the land on either side of rivers and concerns itself only with navigation. Ownership is private.

READER.—To re-convey, wife No. 3 must sign deed to bar marital and statutory rights after she has thereto. If she does not, title will be clouded.

MRS. K.—Illinois divorcee marrying in Missouri within a year should live permanently in Missouri or repeat marriage ceremony after the year has passed.

E. E.—If you want to sue two doctors who crippled wife for life, see a capable lawyer. If you are too poor to pay, see free legal aid bureau, Municipal Building.

PROPERTY OWNER.—Water is the common enemy of all, and, so far as we know, there is no remedy you can apply except protect yourself in respect to washing of ashes in sewer as best you can. As we are not aware of the lay of the land, and other conditions existing, above is the best answer we can give from facts only which your letter implies.

MISCELLANEOUS.
A. R. S.—If in this office now, the photograph may be had.

DORA.—At present we are fully supplied with stories. (Hair is "it," not "the.")

N. C. F.—See tanning formula at this office. (Repeatedly published.)

J. J. J.—Turpentine or benzine will take off the white paint that has run down on brick wall. Wash wall afterwards.

G. E.—We doubt that any snake charms birds. A number of birds cast in with a collection of rattlers and blacksnakes were watched, and there was no charming.

T. P.—Queries should always be addressed, "Answers," otherwise there may be delay. One initial is sufficient. Avoid foul signatures. Mail only one question in one day.

FAMILY DIVIDED.—Franklin wrote that there never was a good war or a bad peace. If you correctly quote him, "The way to peace is to have a good war," we do not understand him.

PATRIOT.—It would hardly be worth while to punish a nation for denouncing our Government and President. He may feel better later. A fool's mouth is always open and he will have free speech in this country.

A. B.—Try offering song to some Eastern publisher, whose address you could find in any music store. It should be typewritten and it will not be safe if not copyrighted on my stamp put your name on it, in writing the publisher, and express the hope that it may be acceptable.

READER.—The attendance on St. Louis day, the banner day of the St. Louis World Fair was 149,416. Of this number 355,403 were paid admissions, 44,447 were free. The fair is the largest in the world, including between 1000 and 2000 children, and the military troops in the parade.

CAL.—A physician writes: If you will use clean—disinfect in formalin—hair brush and comb, and wash the scalp three times a day until it is red from friction, with cold water—nothing else—rub in a great deal of sulphur at night, then wash off with castile soap in the morning, it will save your hair.

SUB.—The "Western Pacific Railroad" was the Pacific Railroad. Construction of the railroad began in 1851. In 1898 it had attained a mileage of 314 miles, reaching into six states. It is now known as the Missouri Pacific. First train to Pacific Mo., July 14, 1852. Among the earliest acts in making it a reality, the Missouri was the chartering, Jan. 25, 1857, of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad Co. Nothing was done under this charter until March, 1851, when the Louisiana Purchase and Iron Mountain Co., which covered the same ground, came into active life. The Iron Mountain Co. was a subsidiary of the St. Louis and San Francisco Co. The latter was the next St. Louis railroad; Illinois Central, which was built in 1854, was a great success, said, "There is the East; there is Indiana."

WALTER.—A nurse desiring to enroll for Red Cross service should apply to the chairman of the National Committee on Red Cross nursing service, the American Red Cross, State, War and Navy Building, Washington, D. C. Nurses enrolled for service under the American Red Cross must have graduated from a school of nursing which gives a thorough professional education, both theoretical and practical, and which requires a resident year of hospital work in an acceptable hospital. All applicants must be endorsed either by the superintendent of nursing or by a nurse trained or by a nursing organization which is a member of or affiliated with the Nurses' Associated Alumnae of the United States, or must submit such other evidence of moral, professional and mental qualifications as may be acceptable to the National Committee on Red Cross nursing service. No nurse under 25 years of age will be enrolled for service under the Red Cross. (No premium on your points.)

HANNIBAL.—Rose potpourri is undoubtedly the favorite, though it is not by any means the easiest or only kind to make. It is simple. Collect together as many rose petals as possible—those of old-fashioned roses are best—and be sure they are free from blight or disease. A rose garden is not wanted. With a little care, you can get a lot of rose leaves—especially by getting all one's friends to assist in the task. Dry the petals in the sun, and crush them. Say there is a quarter of a pound of rose leaves. Then mix with them these spices: Two ounces each of common salt and bay salt, one ounce powdered cinnamon, quarter ounce each of cloves, powdered cinnamon, powdered mace and allspice. Mix together in a jar and keep closing every day for a month. The following potpourri—one of the most delightful possible—is made of all kinds of flowers and is in it—violets, roses, thyme, lemon, yarrow, cowslips, lilacs, and lavender. Break the heads off the tiny ones, and put the flowers into a jar, and let them stand. Between each layer of flowers sprinkle a little common salt, powdered mace and powdered cinnamon. Fairly close the jar, and when it is full and the flowers are dry and dry, stir all together.—Boston Globe.

The Death Slayers of Flanders

A Tale From Chaucer

(That part of the present Belgium which is called Flanders always has played a great part in English history and literature. England's fighting men have fought in Flanders, for Flanders, and against Flanders. Their attempt today to break into the region to throw the Germans out is only another chapter of an age-long record. This story is from Chaucer, who wrote before 1400.)

In Flanders there was a company of young men who committed every form of riot. They ate and drank beyond all measure, thus sacrificing to the Devil in his own chosen temple. They laughed at each other's sin.

One day three of these rioters sat drunk in a tavern when they saw a corpse carried past the door and inquired, laughing and jeering, who it was. The tapster told them that it was an old companion of theirs who was killed suddenly while he was drunk. "Who killed him?" they demanded with oaths that surely made the angels in Heaven shudder. "Quick!" Name him!

"He is a thief named Death," answered the tapster lad. "He hath slain many thousand of people hereabout."

"I vow to hunt him in every stile and street!" swore one of the three drunkards, rising unsteadily to his feet.

"We will join thee!" cried the other two. Stark mad with drink, they staggered out on the road, swearing oaths ever new and grislier about the deeds that they would do on this Death.

They had not gone far before they met a poor, weak old man who greeted them meekly. "Churi," said one of the drunkards, "what dost thou here, alone and up and crawling about at thine age? Why does not Death kill thee?"

"Death, alas! will not take my life," answered the old man. "Thus do I walk about on the ground, which is my mother's door, knocking on it with my staff and begging. 'Dear mother, let me in.' Yet she will not grant me this boon. God be with you. I must go on."

"By Saint John, we part not so lightly!" said one of the three. "Thou hast spoke of that traitor Death that goes about the country killing our friends. Tell us where he is or thou shalt pay dear!"

"SIR," replied the old man humbly, "if it be your pleasure to find Death, turn up your crooked path. Do you see that oak? Under it you will find him, and he will not hide himself from you, for all your boasting."

The three rioters ran to the place. They saw nothing that looked like Death, but instead they spied a great heap of fire golden florins. Immediately they forgot about their quest, and threw themselves on the treasure, with a hundred outcries of joy and a hundred and more promises of what they would do with it.

"Hold!" said the eldest at last. "If we take all this gold home openly, we shall be taken for thieves. Let us therefore watch by it till nightfall, when we may carry it slyly. One of us shall go to the next town and buy bread and wine while the others guard the money."

None wished to leave the treasure, so they cast lots, and it fell to the youngest to get the provisions. As soon as he had gone, one of the two who remained said to the other: "We have been sworn brothers long. Listen to me, and I will show thee how all the gold may become the property of us two instead of being divided among three."

The other thought that it was but foolish to divide among three, and promised to help his companion in anything he wished to do.

"When our companion returns," said the first one, "thou must pretend to wrestle with him in sport. While you are struggling, I will jerk him under the ribs with my dagger, and do thou, for greater surety, do the same with thine. Then this gold will be yours and mine and we may do with it as we please!"

MEANTIME, the one who had been sent to town was casting about in his mind all the way how he might make all the beautiful florins his. "Oh, Lord!" he said to himself. "If I could but have all this treasure to myself, not a man under Heaven would be happier than I."

The Great Enemy of mankind whispered to his spirit at that, and into his brain came the thought that he might poison the wine. So he went to an apothecary who sold him a poison so mighty that a bit only as large as a wheat-corn would strike a man dead.

He bought three flasks of wine and poisoned two. Then he went back and set down the bread and the drink on the grass under the tree. The two murdered him, as they had agreed, and sat down to drink before they buried him.

Laughing with great joy, and filled with eager thoughts of the delights that the gold would buy them, they lifted their cups high and drank deep. Instantly the poison caught them in the throat and the heart. They twisted themselves in agony on the ground beside their slain companion until they, too, cast their lives out and lay cold.

Thus the Death Slayers had been tricked by Death—for he was the old man they had met on the road.

This story is "The Pardoner's Tale" in the "Canterbury Tales." It is one of the very old stories of the world, and is known in some form to almost every nation and race. Its origin is untraceable. It was an old tale when it was used by Geoffrey Chaucer (1380 or 1385-1400).

Chapter IX.

JULY 12.—Ned and I have had a long talk today. I love him as much as ever—oh, more, more—but I think I understand him rather better.

The doctor told me that it was not necessary to sit up with him, but I couldn't sleep. So for two nights I sat curled up in one of Mrs. Higgins' uncomfortable arm chairs, watching my husband. This morning about 6 o'clock his eyes opened and he spoke in a voice that was perfectly rational, although a little weak.

"Ned!" he exclaimed, hurrying to the bed and kneeling beside it. "You're feeling better, aren't you? Your head is so much cooler; I think the fever must be nearly all gone. Oh, it doesn't matter about me! As soon as I know you are all right I can rest."

"Mollie," he began again, stroking my face weakly with the hand I had pressed against it. "You saved my life the other day. The outgoing tide had caught me, and I never could have made the shore alone. And—and I went out there when you asked me to stay, because I couldn't take another woman's dare! I made you suffer for a fool's stunt, and then you saved me from the consequences. Mollie, I'm not worth it!"

"Oh, my dear," I breathed, slipping his weak hand back behind his head and putting my face close to his on the pillow. "don't you know that nothing in the world is worth anything to me now except you? I could not live without you. All the other people are shadows to me!"

"And to me, Mollie," he interrupted, his voice growing stronger with his earnestness. "there aren't any women except you. And yet I had to do what that fool girl told me, even when you begged me not to do it. Mollie, I have a beast of a temper. That Randall girl taunted me, and I can't stand a sneer from anybody. If she'd been a man I'd have knocked her down. As it was, I took another way of getting even; made up my mind, all in a flash, that I'd do what she hinted I couldn't."

"Once, when I was a child, I promised my mother I wouldn't walk alone in a large forest near the hotel where we were spending our vacation. A little girl asked me to go in a little way and get her some flowers. When I refused she called me 'fraid-cat.' Raging, I broke my promise to my mother, wandered off into the woods and was lost for two days. I deserved a good licking—which I didn't get. I guess one thing that's the matter with me is that I've always been saved from the consequences of my acts, instead of being punished for them."

I have never known Ned to talk so frankly about himself. Like most men, he isn't in the habit of analyzing his deeds or his disposition. He's energetic and not introspective.

"DEAR," I said, as he paused rather gloomily. "will you make me a promise now? Will you promise to refrain from doing anything which involves your safety when I ask you not to take the risks I shan't be an interfering wife. I know that a man mustn't coddle himself or act like a Miss Nancy. I shan't ask you to stop drinking or smoking or motoring. I shan't make you wear rubbers every time there's a cloud in the sky."

"But I have suffered so, this time. If I saved your life it belongs to me more than ever. Promise you won't put it in danger again."

I thought that Ned would give the promise at once. But there was another silence, so long that I raised my head to look at him. He was frowning and the eyes he turned to me were sombre.

"I can't promise, Mollie," he said, scarcely above a whisper. "I should break my word, as I did to my mother years ago. I tell you, I can't account for myself when I'm angry. It seems as if I were in the center of a hot wave, too strong to be fought."

"And that was why you struck my dog that day in the park," I said, in sudden enlightenment.

"Yes," he answered shamefully. "I said nothing. There seemed nothing more to say. It was he who broke the peace."

"I promise," he said, soberly, "that I will do everything in my power to fight this abominable temper of mine—if you will help me, my wife."

"I promise, Ned," I answered gravely. "Of course I will help him—surely we together shall be strong enough to win."

than with candidates. The party was experiencing tremendous internal dissension over the silver question. Between the gold standard men of the East and the silver men of the West there was bitter strife.

This monetary plank of the platform had to be settled in the convention before any consideration could be given to candidates. In the course of the debate, Mr. Bryan, a delegate from Nebraska, made his "crown of thorns" speech and immediately became acknowledged leader of the silver men.

Not only did he drive the gold standard faction down to defeat, but he swept the convention off its feet, arousing a demonstration of frenzied and tumultuous enthusiasm seldom equaled. As the man of the hour, he was nominated by acclamation for President on the first ballot.

Under Bryan's dictation the convention adopted a platform that divided his own party and stirred up unusual political strife in all factions. "We demand," declared the Democrats, "the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

The Republican previously had nominated William McKinley and adopted a cautious gold platform, saying: "We are opposed to the free coinage of silver except by international agreement with the leading commercial nations of the world, which we pledge ourselves to promote, and until such agreement can be obtained, the existing gold standard must be preserved."

In the fight that followed McKinley won, but Bryan kept up his silver agitation, always unsuccessful, for eight years longer.

WESTERNERS HAVE STARTED TO CLIMB

Eastern Clubs of American League Have Won Only 5 of 22 Western Games.

BROWNS GAIN 74 POINTS

Tigers Also Put On Spurt That Promises to Carry Them to the Top.

By W. J. O'Connor.

In the current interseasonal series in the American League, the Eastern clubs have lost 17 and won only five games from the Western entrants. That's a losing percentage of .227 for the Orient and a winning percentage of .773 for the Occidental clubs, a rather successful offensive on the Western front.

Detroit is making the pace for the Western clubs and has compiled a winning streak of six straight, which only equals, however, the recent spate of the Browns. But Detroit and Chicago are beginning to realize on their possibilities and the tailrider look for a more consistent effort from these teams for the remainder of the season.

The Browns have taken 74 points to their standing since they returned home. They were victimized by Umpire Evans, who banished Marsans for a trifling offense, and also by the unfortunate injury to Bert Shotton, who is ready, however, to operate against the Red Sox this afternoon.

With both these men in the lineup, it isn't surprising to suppose that the Browns' men would have walloped Leonard Saturday and maintained the continuity of their winning habit. Leonard didn't have much and, with another good fight with Marsans, his troubles might easily have been doubled.

Eastern Teams Not "There."

However, the Browns are still in a position to continue successfully their "spring offensive." They are only three games behind the flying Tigers and one and one-half games behind the White Sox, the two teams that must be beaten. We have seen every team in the league now but the Yankees and it is our earnest hope that nothing in the East compares with any one of the Western clubs.

There's something lacking in the Yankees, possibly a managerial punch. Anything this club doesn't possess one as a pennant possibility. It's scoring system is faulty, although when Baker hits, it's a sure thing that he will repeat. This team's defense is two hits to the game waker than it was last season, and it's a pity that the Boston team will be lacking.

The American League is not as strong this year as it was last and what doer can furnish the facts for such an augury?

Speaker Would Have Had It.

Fans who saw Saturday's game at Sportsman's Park are unanimous in the belief that Speaker would have grabbed Austin's drive in the eighth inning, a thing that had Jimmy Linn, a pitcher, and put the Browns in a position to win had they been given the proper brand of pitching. Walker almost made it, but he was not quite good enough to get it. Of course, the Red Sox didn't lose this game, but they would have lost it had they had a left-hander pitched to Walker in the ninth.

The Athletics' don't figure at all while Washington cannot seriously be considered a factor. Speaker has less wonders as Griff owns. Just now, however, the Nationals are second in team batting and ready to take the place of the Browns in the dog days set in such batters as Pratt, Marsans, Miller, and E. Collins.

Jack, Fournier et al. are bound to hit. The Browns are above the Griffins. E. Collins, a recognized .300 clubber, is batting only .244, and this is not anything else explains the failure of the White Sox to be "there, or thereabouts."

Settling Into Real Stride.

Indeed, by the end of June prospects are bright that the many spring upsets will all have disappeared and one Cleveland seems to have the staying powers and will be hard to dislodge. With Chapman, one of the best shortstops in the circuit, but it harness this club figures to improve, rather than retrograde, in the latter part of the season. It is at least three, and possibly four (if Jones hits in the first division when the entrants in the 1st day square away for the stretch drive on July 4.

Yesterday's rain cost the Browns upwards of $5000. There was every reason to expect the banner Sunday crowd of the season and the management had set out to make the most of it. The rain, however, was a cruel disappointment. The series will be renewed today with Jim Clark officiating against Ernie Shore. Lines will be admitted free.

The Browns have four postponed games with Eastern clubs and this means a sliver of double-header next month. However, by that time the Browns will be in shape for regular duty. While Park and McCabe should have improved sufficiently to be considered dependable, Jones is sorely in need of another good club-batter, and if Park comes through today it will be a boon to the Browns manager.

Barring George Satter's automobile there was nothing of interest at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon. But George's machine created considerable fun. The machine, a Duesenberg, was driven by Satter, a well-known St. Louis driver. Satter, indeed, to make Barney Dreyfus laugh.

ENGLISH WOMAN GOLFER SEEKS NEW YORK TITLE

NEW YORK, June 12.—Most of the prominent players of New York City and vicinity are among the 100 entrants in the women's Metropolitan golf championship, which began today on the links of the Bellerose Golf Club to continue until Friday.

The presence among the players of Mrs. William A. Gay, who won the title last year, is the Eastern title at Boston, last week, the defending champion, Miss Marion Melina, a professional champion three years ago and runner-up for the national title in 1915, and Philadelphia at Cleveland, closed at 3:15 p. m. National and Metropolitan titles.

Municipal Teams Idle.

All four games scheduled in the eight circuits of the Municipal Baseball Association yesterday were called off on account of rain. The first four semi-pro leagues, also were called off on account of rain.

MUNICIPAL GOLF PLAY RESULTS IN MANY SURPRISES

Top Notch Players Eliminated From Tourney; Other Shocks Are Expected.

Matches which will bring together players of final round ability will feature the second round of the municipal golf championship tourney, which is now in progress over the public course. Such players as L. J. Hamel, John Mantion and C. A. Jones have already been eliminated from competition in the play of Saturday and Sunday, but it is now almost a certainty that others whose names are generally fixtures in the semi-finals and finals will have taken the count by next Sunday.

The feature match of the third round brings together J. P. and Frank Lynch, two top-notchers. Frank Lynch won fame by eliminating Jimmy Kenney from last year's tourney, and yesterday defeated L. J. Hamel, 5 and 4. P. took the low medal qualifying prize with an 80, and anyone who can make an 80 on the Forest Park links is to be reckoned with.

Ten Matches Played Yesterday.

L. A. White and W. T. Pendleton, two stars of the free links, will also meet for the right of entrance to the third round, while the W. J. Preckel-Jim Manion match will demand as much notice as any.

Ten matches were played in the championship class yesterday, while the B and C classes competition brought the number up to 26. The feature match of the championship class was that in which Frank Lynch eliminated J. P. and yesterday won by a great finish that the winner was able to take the match, he being 1 down as the players approached the hole. He took holes 8 and 9, taking the lead, then saved himself by a 3 and 2.

P. C. Montgomery, who won from Arthur Phares and completed the tourney, turned in a card of 80, the fact that the course was soaked with rain makes this score doubly good.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCardell

Mr. Jarr, Mr. Rangle, Gus and Mr. Slavinsky Discuss Straw Hats and Thermometers.

"AREN'T you ever going to get a straw hat?" asked Mr. Rangle. "Ah, it's too early for a straw hat. Straw hats are not to be worn till June 15," said Mr. Jarr, speaking as one having authority, although he had no new straw hat. "What did you give for your new Panama?"

"Three dollars," said Mr. Rangle. "I'll put you on to the place—that's if they have got any this year for that price."

"Why, is it last year's?" asked Mr. Jarr. "It looks pretty good."

"Sure it looks good," said Rangle. "But I've been given a dip in that whitening stuff the women use for their white canvas shoes."

Mr. Rangle took off the near-Panama with a grandiose manner and immediately the air was filled with chalk scales.

"Hi, there! Look what you're doing!" cried Mr. Jarr in alarm. "If I were to go home covered with that chalk stuff, Mrs. Jarr would think I had been bowling and keeping the score. Say, I'm going to make for 'Gus' place. Join me!"

"Sure!" replied Mr. Jarr. "Let's leave it to Gus if straw hats are in season yet."

The two entered Gus' cafe and found him in consultation with Mr. Slavinsky, the glazier, over an array of cheap thermometers laid along the bar. Mr. Jarr propounded the question to Gus as to whether straw hats should be in stock before June 15.

"That all depends," said Gus. "If you get an old one you can give a coat of whitewash like Rangle done with his; it's good manners to wear such a hat any time, because such a hat is not good manners to wear at any time, go it's all right."

Mr. Slavinsky nodded approval of this statement and appeared to understand it. "A good hat should not be got till as late as possible," continued Gus. "I am talking about straw hats. A hat which is cleaned he gets yellier right away quick, no matter what he costs. So it is best, I think, to get a hat what don't cost much, early, and then throw it away in July or August and get another cheap one what don't cost much."

And again Mr. Slavinsky nodded his head in approval.

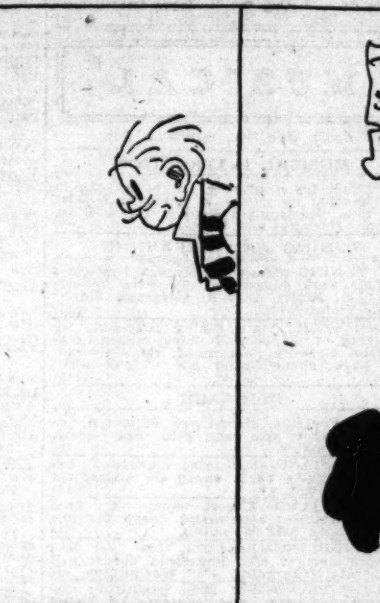

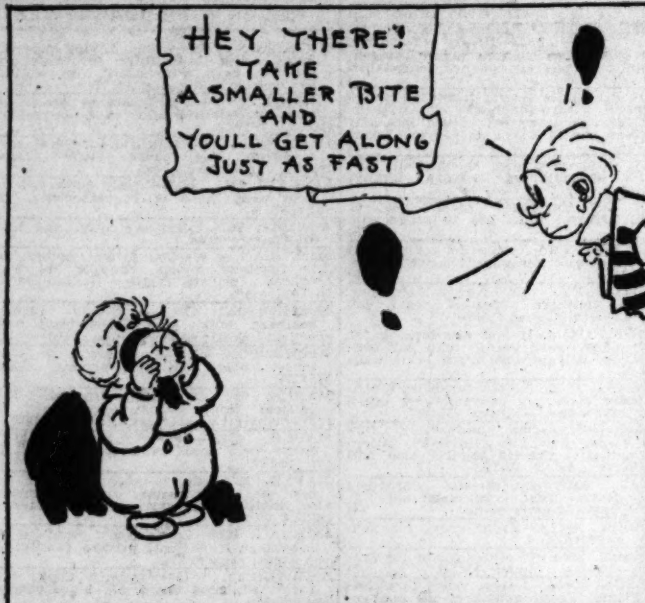

"You want to wear a straw hat just as soon as the weather is hot," Gus went on, "but you can't tell the weather is hot unless you have a thermometer. Which is science. And, when I speak about it, Slavinsky says he has some in his store. Elmer, my bartender, broke the one I had. When I first started in business I had a stove in my liquor store, but the loafers was always standing around it, so I had it put up on top of my ice box so they couldn't, and I never would have seen my ice melting if I hadn't had that thermometer on my ice box."

"But this one you have bought is five degrees higher than the others," remarked Mr. Jarr.

"That's why I got it," said Gus. "I get the worth of my money. And, then, it shows it's a good, quick thermometer, and get a running start on the others."

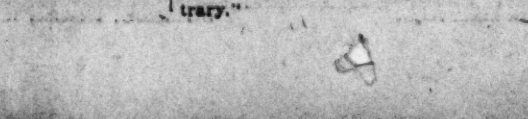

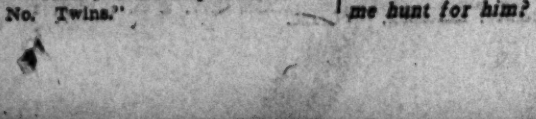

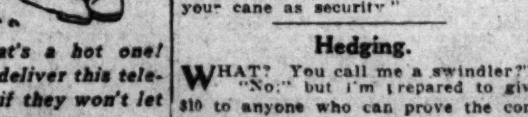

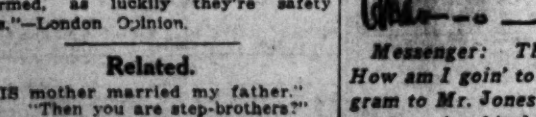

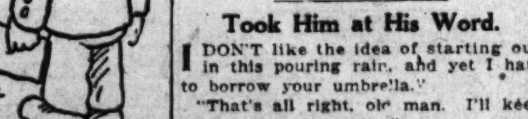

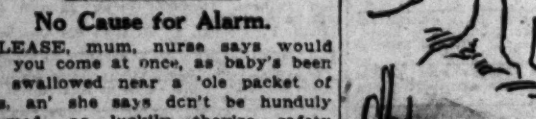

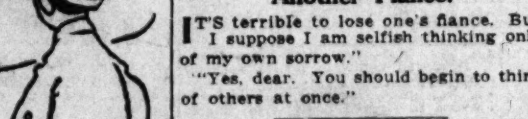

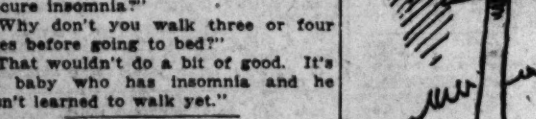

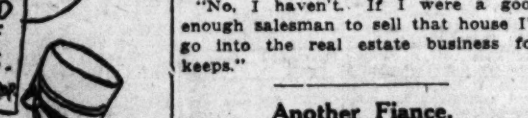

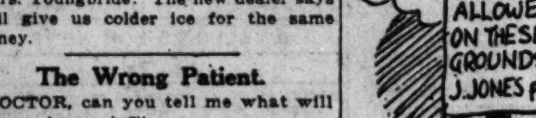

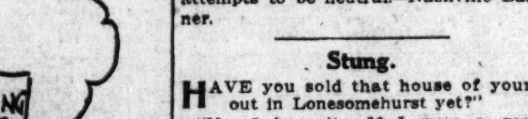

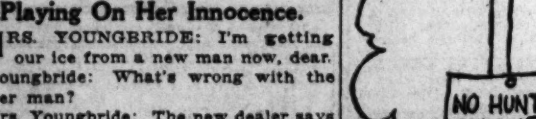

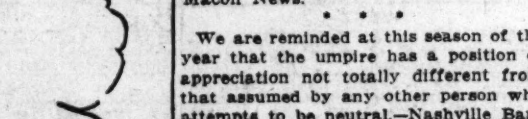

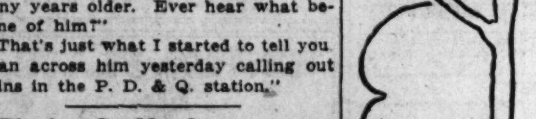

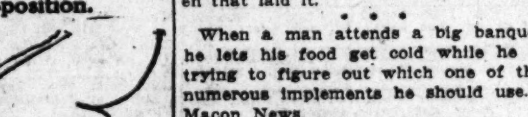

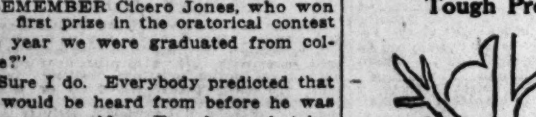

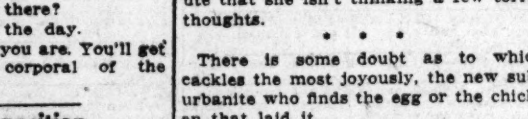

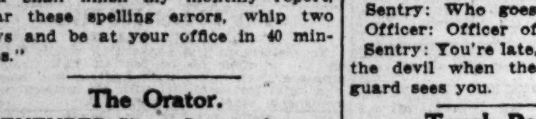

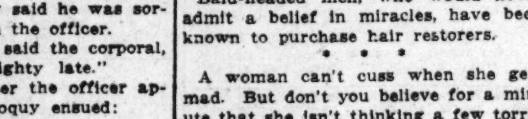

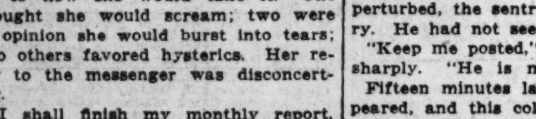

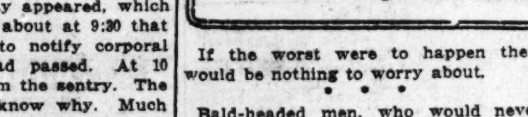

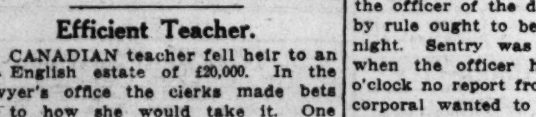

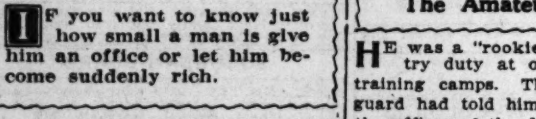

Mr. Rangle suggested that it would be a good thing if thermometers of small size were put in all straw hats. It was Gus' idea that a straw hat so equipped would be stylish all the year around.

Summerizing the Flat.

Scene: Any city flat—in June.
(It is 6:30 a. m. Two alarm clocks go off simultaneously. Mrs. Brown jumps out of bed.)
Mrs. B. (one eye half open)—What time is it?
Mrs. B. (energetically)—Six-thirty, dear.
Mr. B. (in disgust)—Aw, what're you getting up so early for? There isn't a fire or anything.
Mrs. B. (briskly)—Today's the day Della and I are going to get the flat ready for the summer. We left it too late last year. I told you we were going to do it last night, Freddie. Come on, get up.
Mr. B. (comatose)—I don't think I slept well last night. I'm awful tired.
Mrs. B. (indulgent)—Yes, I know. But you can go to bed early tonight. Just think how nice it is going to be to come home and find the place all fixed. You're always complaining because I don't want you to smoke when you're sitting in certain chairs and on account of staining the curtains. Tonight everything will be ready for just plain comfort.
Mr. B. (stretching vigorously)—Well, that's worth something. My gosh! I wouldn't know how to act if I could do as I please in my own house! I'll be thinking all day about the fine time I'm going to have.
(After Mr. Brown's departure for downtown Mrs. Brown and Della get busy. At 6:15 the master of the house returns. Mrs. Brown, dragged and complaining, meets him at the door.)
Mrs. B. (whining)—Oh, I'm so tired, Freddie! I can hardly drag one foot after the other. I always say, from year to year, that I'm never going to do it again—and still I do. You don't mind if I don't dress for dinner, do you, dear?
Mr. B. (patting her)—Why, no, of course not. Now you just sit down and rest, poor tired girl! After all, summerizing the flat comes only once a year. And now for some solid comfort!
Mrs. B. (plaintively)—You won't muss things up, will you, Freddie—after I've worked so hard and everything is so spick and span? Step on the little pieces of paper I've laid on the floor, because you see, we took the rugs up and polished the floors and I don't want you to make marks on them.
Mr. B. (jumping lightly as does the mountain goat)—My dear, I'm no chamois. I'll break my neck doing this.
Mrs. B. (suddenly)—Oh, Freddie, don't sit in that chair, dear! I just had a new slip-cover made for it—and you'll stretch it at the seams if you sit on it before it gets the shape of the chair. And if you're going to lie on the couch, put something under your feet, because Della says that cover is awfully hard to launder—and it's so clean right now.
Mr. B. (calling his goat)—Didn't you say this joint was going to be fixed for comfort tonight?
Mrs. B. (almost in tears)—Well, it is, Freddie. Only just these few little things I'm asking you to do. How can you begin to get cranky when I've almost broken my health doing it?
Mr. B. (peevishly)—Oh, stop making a noise like a galley slave! The place looks like a graveyard, with a lot of monuments ready to be unveiled; and you act like a mourner. I'm going to bed.
Mrs. Brown, reduced to weeps, sinks into a chair.
Mr. B. (in a few minutes)—Say, what's the idea? The sheets on my bed look like they're ready to be sent to the trenches for bandages.
Mrs. B. (sobbing)—Had to use all the good ones to cover up the pests and statues, Freddie. I'll get some new ones tomorrow.
Mr. B. (sternly)—Listen! Tomorrow we DE-summerize this flat. Let us acquire flies, fleas, moths, silkworms, hookworms, lepidoptera, animalcules—any exponents of insectology at all—nevertheless, we desummerize. Understand?
Mrs. B. (meekly)—Yes, dear.

Wails From a Playwright.

ONCE wrote a play. "Twas a wonderful play. At least, I was sure it was such. It took me a month to complete it—and say—I felt it possessed just the touch to make it a winner; to startle the town and bring me in dollars galore. To visit producers at once I went down. I'll never write plays any more to read. "It looks like it, pipkin," he said. I warned him to hurry to cultivate speed, lest somebody grab it, instead. Three weeks passed along and he gave my play back. "It's fine, but I'm busy," said he. "At playwriting you have a marvelous knack." And that's all the man said to me. Another producer went over my play and kept it a month, maybe more; then sent it to me by the postman one day. "Twas great, but he'd such a large store. Two others informed me the play was a peach—a drama that just couldn't fail. A nice little letter was sent me by each. The play also came in the mail. I took that blamed drama and used it one day to kindle a blaze in the grate. It crackled and flared. Oh, I really must say it burned at a wonderful rate. The blaze that it started was bright as could be. As kindling 'twas fine, I confess. And when it was gone I just chortled in glee. My drama had proved a success.

Only Thing to Do.

CHRISTOPHER! Did I see you raising your hat to our parlor maid?"
"Yes, my dear!"
"Christopher!"
"Well, my dear, if I ignored her she'd give notice. She's too smart to be nodded to, and if I winked at her you'd be annoyed."

Got Both Jobs.

HEAD of business: What position do you desire in our establishment, sir?
College graduate: Oh, something like confidential adviser or general manager.
Head of business: Good! You may have both jobs. I will make you an office boy.

A Secret.

WHAT are you going to do this summer while your wife is in the country?
"If I told you that you'd go and tell your wife, and then she'd tell my wife, and my wife wouldn't go to the country at all."

HAVE YOU ever thought that "tomorrow" is but an expectation which never materializes?
LIFE INSURANCE taken out "tomorrow" has no maturity "today."
INSURE NOW.

This is one of the prize-winning advertisements in the Education campaign of the Life Underwriters' Association of St. Louis, and was written by A. J. FERROW, 550 Boatmen's Bank Bldg., St. Louis.

SUCH IS LIFE.

Moving Picture Playwright: Well, if there isn't Marjorie de Nix and her maid! And I wrote the scenario she's playing!

Facts Not Worth Knowing.

FOR the benefit of honeymooners, a Western railroad advertises that its tunnels have the finest scenery in the world.
Contrary to the opinion of young wives, salmon isn't caught canned.
The company that formerly manufactured moustache cups now makes fenders to keep whiskers out of soup plates.
The heat of the sun is so great that no human being can live there, which fortunately prevents a janitor from getting up there and spilling everything.

GOOD idea gone wrong

—roller towels.

One Paying Guest.

SEE you're takin' summer boarders, Hiram. How are you makin' out?
"Wal, I've got my cousin from the city, with his wife and six children and my wife's niece, with her husband and four children an' then I've got one feller that pays for his board."

Disappointed Hopes.

WHAT was the color scheme of Jack's wedding?
"Not quite what he expected. From what he had heard of the bride's wealth, he thought the ever popular yellowback would figure conspicuously in the decorations, but the girl's father didn't come across, so it looked pretty blue for Jack."

A young man always has plenty of help while he is sowing his wild oats, but when the time comes to gather them he has to do the work alone.

Worth While.

FIND that it pays to give each of my employees two weeks' vacation every year?
"You find that they do better work after they have had a rest, I presume."
"It isn't so much that, but it helps to make them understand that they are not absolutely indispensable."
A megaphone and fan have been combined in a recent novelty.
